

Court ruling may spur Horseshoe acquisition

The construction of the new Lock and Dam 26 at Alton may have an unexpected benefit for the Quad-City area; it may allow the sleeping Horseshoe Lake State Park improvement program to be activated in the next fiscal year which begins Oct. 1, 1981.

A recent federal court decision mandates that fish and wildlife habitat lost and inundated by such projects as the Alton locks must be compensated for by the purchase of an equal amount of land for wildlife habitat in another area.

Currently, the state is considering purchasing more land around Horseshoe Lake to meet the requirement, it was indicated in a letter from David Kenney, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation, to William Nichols, a landowner in that area.

In his letter, Kenney said that IDOC already has recommended to the U.S. Corps of Engineers that the Corps purchase Nichols' property and two other tracts in the park project area as compensation for habitat lost in the Alton lock project.

It is recommended that the Corps then lease or transfer the properties to the Department of Conservation, which will maintain the land for wildlife habitat.

Kenney said in his letter that personnel in the real estate branch of the Corps of Engineers have indicated that the acquisition of mitigation lands is programmed for the fiscal year which begins Oct. 1, 1981.

Nichols had offered to trade his land, which is adjacent to the present park boundaries, for an equal amount of land IDOC owns near the lake, but is not open to the public because it cannot be reached without crossing private property.

In his letter, Kenney thanked Nichols for the offer, but said he feels the acquisition of the land by the Corps for wildlife habitat is "a timely alternative."

He also says, "I hope you concur that our mutual interests will be better resolved by this action. I do, however, appreciate your kind offer of a land trade. We will keep you informed of any discussions with the Corps which affect this action."

The Horseshoe Lake project had been put "on the back burner" by IDOC after it was discovered that the lake is too shallow for many recreational purposes and is silting rapidly. Unless expensive dredging is done or another answer to halting the silting is found, the lake could become dry within our lifetimes, experts have told recent gatherings of local residents interested in keeping the park project alive.

Nichols said he feels the purchase of his land and the other two tracts by the Corps will reactivate the park project, and the size of the park will then justify the spending of more money by the Department of Conservation in improvements.

He also said the purchases would end recent problems where users of the park are uncertain when they are on public land and when they are on private land. For example, he said, if a fisherman launches a boat at the state-owned boat ramp and paddles straight out, within seconds he is in private property owned by Granite City Steel and could be subject to arrest for trespassing.

Many persons have been charged with trespassing on private property around the lake, because they do not know where the state-owned property ends. The posting of signs has been almost "useless," according to Nichols, because vandals tear the signs down as quickly as state workers place them up.

Purchasing of the Nichols land and two other tracts will improve the "patchwork" situation of land ownership which now exists at the lake and will allow the public more freedom in moving around the lake without fear of being arrested for accidentally straying onto private property, he feels.

Assessment reductions are omitted on some tax bills

First installment due Monday

Monday is the deadline for Madison County residents to pay the first installment on their real estate tax bills, local tax collectors are reminding property owners.

Taxpayers who applied last year for assessment reductions are being urged to examine their bills carefully before paying them. "From what we have seen, quite a few persons who applied under Senate Bill 1790 for assessment reductions were not credited with the reduction on their tax bills," the spokesman for the Granite City Township assessor's office said.

"What's more, we have been told by the (Madison County) state's attorney's office that once a taxpayer has paid his bill, without the S.B. 1790 reduction, there will be no refunds," the spokesman added.

Last summer, taxpayers were urged to mail in coupons from the Press-Record to apply for the S.B. 1790 assessment reduction or to apply for it in person at the assessor's office. The legislation is designed to offset tax increases caused by inflation, reassessments and assessment multipliers. There are no limitations on family income or value of the property.

Taxpayers must reapply each year for the reduction and have until Oct. 15 this year to apply. The application form appears elsewhere in today's Press-Record.

Granite City Township Tax Collector Nick Petrillo said his office has been checking the tax bills of everyone paying their taxes at his office and those who did not receive credit for the assessment reduction are being asked to go downstairs to the tax assessor's office to attempt to resolve the problem before the bill is paid.

"I have been told the same thing. Once the bill is paid, there will be no refunds for the county's failure to put the S.B. 1790 reduction on there," Petrillo said.

"That is one advantage of paying your tax bill to the local tax collector, rather than mailing it to Edwardsville (the county treasurer's office). We are examining all these bills to be sure that everyone who comes to see us gets the reduction, if he is entitled to it," Petrillo added.

It is difficult to estimate what percentage of the taxpayers entitled to the assessment reduction failed to receive credit for it, Petrillo indicated, but said there have been "quite a few."

Venice Township Tax Collector Jerry Maeras said his office is receiving about 15 wrong tax bills each day and is attempting to resolve the bills before they are paid.

"We have had hundreds of bills where the county treasurer failed to put the reduction on. Perhaps as many as 300 to 400," Maeras estimated.

He also urged taxpayers to pay their tax bills with the local tax collector, rather than mailing the bills to Edwardsville.

A word of advice from Petrillo to those who plan to mail their tax payments to the county treasurer was, "At least check the upper left-hand corner of your bill and see that the amount in the blank marked 'value after S.B. 1790' is lower than the value before S.B. 1790. If not, don't pay the bill until it is straightened out."

One city employee handling the tax bills said she was "appalled" at the number of bills sent to taxpayers without the reduction and at the reaction of the county officials to the problem.

"They could straighten it out through a certificate of error or a refund, even after a taxpayer has paid his bill, but the state's attorney's office just refuses to do it."

"It just seems to me that it is the county's error that the reductions were not credited and it should be the county's responsibility to issue refunds, but they won't," the employee said.

The problem may be compounded for those whose tax bills are paid from an escrow account by the lending institutions which financed their homes. Those taxpayers seldom see their tax bills until after they have been paid, since the bills are sent directly to the lending institutions.

"It may be too late, but we are telling those persons to contact their banks or savings and loan associations to inform the lending institution that there should be a Senate Bill 1790 reduction on the tax bill," the spokesman for the assessor's office said.

Taxpayers are being encouraged to pay their full tax bills, by Monday, if financially possible, to aid local taxing bodies in avoiding borrowing to sustain them until the full taxes arrive.

However, for those unable to pay the full bills, only the first installment is due Monday. The second and final installment must be paid by Nov. 24.

Petrillo said early payment of taxes by some taxpayers have enabled him to distribute another $425,000 to local taxing bodies. The distribution was that the latest distribution included $315,000 of the taxes to taxing bodies.

He told the city council Tuesday night that the latest distribution included $214,543 to the Granite City School District, $40,494 to the county treasurer, $21,652 to the Melrose East Sanitary District, $16,989 to the Granite City Park District, $21,971 to Granite City Township and $12,544 to Belleville Area College.

Partney may run for mayor

Speculation is rising that Dan Partney, son of the late Mayor Donald W. Partney Sr., is about to run for mayor a second time and may make an official announcement next week.

Partney hosted a meeting of about 30 "political people," in his words, Monday evening, at which the possibility of arranging a ticket, headed by Partney, was discussed, the Press-Record has learned.

Partney did not deny that the possibility was discussed, but said he has some things to do before making an official announcement next week.

Among the participants in the meeting was Alderman Charles

NEW TRASH CONTAINERS are loaded by Madison street department workers for delivery Tuesday and Wednesday to various residents in the city. There are 600 being delivered for a 60 to 90-day trial of a new trash collection system. The new trash system is expected to be more efficient, reduce health hazards and keep containers animal and rodent proof. They can be unloaded by one worker using special equipment. From the left: Charles Volokoski, back to camera, Darrin Obermeier, on the truck, Dick Niehaus, (Photo-Record Photo by Mick Strang)

Madison may purchase an ambulance

By MICK STRANGE of the Press-Record
The City of Madison has initiated a study of the feasibility of operating its own city ambulance service.

At the city council meeting Tuesday night, approval was given to advertise for bids for one ambulance. Mayor Mike Sasyk explained, "We are not in a hurry on this and we aren't going to buy an ambulance right away. What we are trying to do is to see just how much our own ambulance service would cost to operate."

"We need to study several cost areas such as training of the men, insurance fees, government grants, plus numerous items."

"This is just in the study stage now, but if we go into our own ambulance, only Madison, the program will be handled by our fire department," Sasyk said.

In other action, the council approved Rickie Robins as a probationary fireman.

A house in the 1100 block of Grand Ave., Madison, was condemned on the recommendation of John Dutko, building inspector.

The one-story frame house, according to Dutko, is in very dangerous condition and is being used as a warehouse.

Dutko maintained the owners had promised to raze the structure, but had done nothing about it in two years, despite several discussions, Dutko told the council.

A police report for the month of August, 1980, showed a 12 percent increase in crime over August, 1979. The August, 1980, monthly crime comparison showed 36 major crimes, compared to 32 last year in August. There was one more burglary and three more thefts committed this past August.

One bid was received and opened for street crack filler. The bid was from Duffin Brothers of Madison at $247.50 per ton, in a 10-ton order.

The bid was given to the purchasing committee and the superintendent of streets for study and a recommendation.

Wind, lightning damage

A thunderstorm at 7 p.m. Tuesday flooded streets, blew down power lines, trees, tree limbs and signs, and broke windows in the Quad-City area. The National Weather Service said a half-inch to an inch of rain fell and wind gusts were recorded at 40 to 65 miles an hour. The temperature plummeted 20 degrees, and there was hail in some portions of the metropolitan area.

The southbound turn lane from Nameoki Road onto Madison Avenue was still flooded Wednesday morning. Signs were found to have been blown down at the Mobil service station at Pontoon and Nameoki roads.

Electric power was off for about two hours in parts of Venice Tuesday evening. A card club meeting at a home in the 1700 block of Spring Avenue had to play by candlelight from 8 to 11 p.m. Tuesday due to a power outage.

Madison firefighters were at a blazing Illinois Terminal Railroad "carnman's shanty" building from 7:50 to 9:45 p.m. and reported $20,000 damage. Lightning apparently had hit the structure, which was engulfed in flames when the firemen were called to rail yards on Route 203 at the underpass south of Madison.

Wind blew out a storm window and an upstairs window at AAA Credit, 19th Street and Delmar Avenue, causing water damage in an office.

A tree was blown onto the roof of the David Ellis home, 3120 W. 20th St., breaking a corner of the roof and causing water damage in the kitchen.

Illinois State Police said there temporarily blocked traffic on Route 140 near Bethalto Tuesday night.

Alert second grader saves family in fire

Have you ever read a pamphlet on fire prevention? Do you really think you could stay cool and collected if you discovered a fire in your home and even if you were a member of your family safety?

Well, 7-year old Chris Perigo, did study all the informational booklets on fire prevention and safety distributed at Lake School, where he is a second grade student, and notified his family of a fire in the kitchen early Monday morning.

According to his mother, Mrs. JoAnn Scaggs, Chris went into the kitchen at 7 a.m. and discovered another youngster had turned on the stove, igniting a skillet of grease.

The family resides in a large two-story frame house located at 1501 Edwardsville Road. Flames, which were shooting through the ceiling, were extinguished by pouring salt on the skillet, Mrs. Scaggs said. The fire was contained in the kitchen area on the first floor and damage was to the stove, a cabinet above the stove and the walls and ceiling were damaged with smoke, Mrs. Scaggs reports.

She called the school principal,

Edward Gonwa, and extended her appreciation to the school for the training given to the children in preparation for just such a home accident.

Gonwa said that guest speakers from the Granite City Fire Department are invited to visit the school and present programs on fire prevention at various dates during the school year.

Students are given booklets and pamphlets to take home, read and keep. Apparently Chris did his homework very well, as he is credited for saving the lives of his family, who were asleep at the time of the incident.

FUTURE FIREFIGHTER?

Chris Perigo, whose alertness in awakening his family after discovering a fire in the kitchen at 7 a.m. Monday is credited with saving their lives. He is retelling the events of the morning to Edward Gonwa, left, principal of Lake School, where the 7-year-old boy is enrolled in the second grade.

Flower cutting giveaway at Wilson Park

The gardeners in the Wilson Park Flower Gardens will be giving away cuttings of plants that were growing in the gardens during the summer months. The great 'give-away' will take place at 9 a.m. Monday, in the gardens, it was announced today.

No one will be allowed to dig their own plants, it was stressed. There will be a sufficient number of park employees on hand Monday to dig and distribute the cuttings.

The plants are being removed from the ground a month earlier this year, than last, so the flower beds can be turned over, fertilized and prepared for the planting of tulip bulbs.

Some of the flowers to be given away include geraniums, ageratum, periwinkles, impatiens, salvia, marigolds, lantana, snapdragons, zinnias, coleus and dusty miller.

The Wilson Park Flower Gardens have become a popular place for weddings the past two summers, it was noted.

Is ear-piercing an art or medicine?

Who should be allowed to do ear-piercing? Should it be a physician? A nurse? A beautician? Or anyone?

That will be the subject of a public hearing to be conducted by the Illinois Department of Registration and Education at 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 23, in the department's offices on the 17th floor at 55 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago 60604.

Announcing the public hearing, Acting Department Director Gary L. Clayton noted the increasing popularity of the ear-piercing practice. He explained that the department's historical position has been that ear-piercing involves the practice of medicine and must be performed by a licensed physician.

"It may or may not be that the historical position should be changed," Clayton said, "and that is the reason for the hearing—to get as much varied input as possible so that an intelligent and fair decision can be made."

A key consideration, Clayton said, is whether ear-piercing should be regulated and, if so, by whom. Among the elements he hopes will be aired at the hearing are:

• Necessary professional training and experience of those performing ear-piercing.

• The circumstances and setting in which the procedure takes place.

• Complications which can occur if the procedure is performed in an unsatisfactory manner.

• The position of other states on the issue.

"There has been no substantive determination in the courts of Illinois on the matter," the director pointed out.

"An integral part of the subject is the interpretation of the statutory provisions of the Illinois Medical Practice Act, which the department administers."

The department licenses and regulates nearly 600,000 persons in 32 broad-based professional and occupational groups, including physicians, nurses and beauty culturists.

Interested persons who cannot attend the public hearing or who prefer to submit written comments can write their comments to the department.

Such comments should be sent to Kenneth A. Padgham Jr., general counsel. The deadline for written comments is Nov. 13.

Padgham asks that those wishing to testify at the hearing contact him in the Chicago office of the department so that he can set up the order of those testifying. His phone number is 312-793-8549.

JUNIOR MISS candidates pitch in at a car wash to help raise funds for the community program, now involving 22 local young women. The pageant will be staged Oct. 12 in the auditorium at Granite City High School South. From left are Mary Koerper, Loretta Rutledge, Kelly Vaughn, Cheryl McIlvoy, Karen Cook, Julia Ross, Lila Hudson and Cheryl Hutchings.

Jr. Miss girls raise funds

To help raise funds for the Granite City Junior Miss Program, scheduled Oct. 12 in Memorial Auditorium at Granite City High School South, several of the contestants staged a car wash last week.

Proceeds from the event will be added to a fund to defray expenses of the pageant and provide a cash scholarship to the winner.

A total of 22 local young women, a larger number than ever before, will compete for the title of Granite City's Junior Miss this October, according to Sharyl Yount, program sponsor.

During the nine-hour car wash, the girls washed 75 vehicles and raised $150.

Mrs. Yount said the candidates now are working on their routines for the pageant and final details are being completed for the event.

Tickets may be obtained from the contestants or by calling Mrs. Yount at 931-4742.

Anyone wishing to contribute a donation to a cash scholarship which will be awarded the new Junior Miss is invited to contact Mrs. Yount.

Busch Blimp entered in Forest Park Balloon Race

The Good Beer Blimp "Busch," the world's largest thermal airship, will be flying high over the eighth annual Great Forest Park Balloon Race Saturday.

The "Busch" Blimp will be competing in a 6 p.m. airship race, the first such race in more than 30 years, to highlight the conclusion of the annual hot air balloon extravaganza.

The Good Beer Blimp "Busch," a 175-foot, cigar-shaped envelope fashioned of more than 3,000 yards of nylon, and the Yellowstone Airship, piloted by James "Buddy" Thompson of Louisville, Ky., will lift off from the nine-hole Forest Park Golf Course near Lindell and Skinker boulevards for the scheduled airship race.

Busch Beer is the general sponsor of the annual Great Forest Park Balloon Race, and the Busch hot air balloon will play the role of the hare in the event's "hare and hound" tracking competition.

Trophies will be awarded to the three balloons which land nearest the Busch balloon, after allowing world champion Paul Weessner, a 10-minute head start in the Busch balloon. The Busch balloon is scheduled to lift off at approximately 4:40 p.m., Saturday.

The "Busch" Airship will be piloted in St. Louis by Sid Cutter and Ron Centers of World Balloon, Corp., of Albuquerque, N.M., which owns and operates a fleet of hot air balloons for Anheuser-Busch, as well as the "Busch" and "Budweiser" thermal airships.

The Good Beer Blimp "Busch" weighs 4,000 pounds when inflated and encompasses an internal volume of 229,000 cubic feet.

The massive airship is non-rigid, with lift buoyancy provided by heated air as with hot air balloons. Propane burners mounted below the envelope opening are used to heat the air inside the envelope to raise the airship. Suspended beneath the envelope is a four-passenger gondola car.

THIRD BURGLARY

The third burglary within a month occurred between Sept. 14 and Wednesday morning at Peck's Radiator Co., 1735 Madison Ave., the intruder cutting two padlocks to gain entrance. A list of missing items is being compiled.

$200 CAMERA TAKEN

A black camera worth $200 and a beige electric clock radio were taken by a burglar Wednesday at the home of Ted Johannpeter, 1635 Delmar Ave. The intruder cut a screen and raised a window. It was the third break-in there since March.

Photographer to discuss color slides

Quad-City area residents are being invited to hear John Ayres, a commercial photographer, address the Collinsville Area Camera Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Joyce Hall, 2016 Keebler Road, Collinsville.

Ayres is with Commercial 35 Corp., which photographs commercially and makes slides for use with business advertisements. He will discuss, "What's new in slides." He also will judge slides and prints submitted by club members.

A spokesman for the club said that several Quad-City area residents now are club members and more are being encouraged to join.

Douglas of the First Ward and Partney commented, "If Charles Douglas runs for alderman and I run for mayor, we will be on the same slate."

Also present was Attorney Leon Scroggins, Partney confirmed. He said others in attendance were "a number of precinct committeemen and a number of people who could work with me on the campaign trail."

If Partney decides to run against incumbent Mayor Paul Schuler this spring, which appears likely, it would be a rematch of the close election of four years ago, which pitted the same two candidates. Schuler was successful, but by a small margin.

Alcoholism is called growing youth problem

Alcoholism is more of a threat to young people than other types of drugs, Granite City Rotarians were told at their weekly luncheon Tuesday by David Hutchison, a native of Madison who manages the Granite City office of the Madison County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

The speaker urged public support of Alcoholics Anonymous and related groups for family members, and also encouraged backing of the local Quad Club, which is seeking to establish a recreation and discussion center for such families.

While not minimizing other drug problems, Hutchison stressed his belief that drinking is a growing threat. He said most of the nation's 50,000 yearly auto fatalities can be attributed to drinking by drivers, and added that 70 percent of teenagers consume alcohol to some extent.

Drinking is a health threat to people of all ages, including unborn children, the club was told.

Family examples are part of the problem, along with peer pressure, it was related.

The speaker's group also has offices in Wood River and Edwardsville. He was introduced by Willie Seim, and President George Moore Sr. presided.

A guest of the club was Gerry Yabut, a high school junior from Manila, Philippines, who will be attending GCHS in South for the 1980-81 year. He was introduced by Donald Shaffner.

ST. PAUL BURGLARY

Two children's banks containing about $60 to $70 each and 15 full books of trading stamps were stolen during a burglary at the home of Leila Percy, 1201 St. Paul St., reported to police early this week. Approve loan for sewers

The Madison County special sewer district once again has funds with which to operate, thanks to the reluctant generosity of the Madison County Board.

The sewer committee pleaded at yesterday's county board meeting that the funds currently were invested at 10 percent interest, while the sewer committee would be paying only four percent interest. Members recalled the promise years ago, when the sewer project first was approved, that the sewers would not cost the county one cent, since all expenses would be paid by a federal grant and by a bond issue for the special service area.

However, when it came to the "bottom line," the county board voted unanimously to loan the sewer committee $600,000 from the highway department's investments.

The money will be used to continue the project until the Environmental Protection Agency releases the final five percent of the grant it is withholding, pending final approval and acceptance of the new sewers in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

Emphasize provost in SIUE reorganization

An internal administrative reorganization of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, announced by President Earl Lazerson on July 31, was approved this month by the SIUE Board of Trustees.

The reorganization expands the functions of the vice president and distributes various support services in four offices: the Office of Development and Public Affairs, the Office of Supporting Services, the Office of Personnel Services, and the Office of Planning and Resource Management.

Offices abolished by the reorganization include: the Office of the Vice President for Business Affairs, the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs, and the Office of the Executive Assistant to the President. The Office of Academic Affairs and Student Services will be administered by the vice president and provost. The remaining offices will be administered by directors.

President Lazerson said the function of the vice president and provost is to administer the academic, research and public service programs of the university, together with those student support services which are basic to student needs.

He said student support services were placed under the vice president and provost to enhance their role in conjunction with the academic mission of the University.

The Office of Development and Public Affairs is responsible for University News Services and related functions, the cultural, Foundation and alumni services of the university, and intercollegiate athletics.

The Office of Supporting Services administers auxiliary services, business services, plant operations, the University Center, and student housing services.

The Office of Personnel Services administers personnel functions pertaining to civil service, faculty and administrative staff employees.

The Office of Planning and Resource Management is responsible for planning, budget management, institutional research, facilities development and related functions.

The president's announcement outlined six controlling guidelines for the reorganization:

—The academic mission, specifically the educational enterprise involving interaction between faculty and students and faculty and student pursuits of research and public service, is the primary concern of the institution and the reason for its existence. All other institutional activities have as their goal the support of teaching, learning, research, and service.

—There is a need to insure effectiveness of support service.

—It is necessary to arrive at a clear definition of responsibility at every academic and administrative level.

—"It is essential that the university achieve a condition of coordination and harmony among its major units.

—"The university must be alert for every opportunity to eliminate waste and effect economies in all facets of institutional operation; and —"The university must organize in a manner that will enhance its ability to solve problems—both present and future."

The president added that resolution of problems associated with student recruitment and retention, increasing effectiveness in delivery of services to students, expanding the ability to aid non-traditional students, and realizing cost economies are of "paramount importance" in the formation of the reorganization.

A national search has been launched to fill the position of vice president and provost; Earl Beard holds the position on an acting basis. President Lazerson said he expects the other major administrative positions will be filled from within the university.

Lawrence Hampton of the SIUE Student Senate Black Caucus told the board the reorganization sacrifices student services for academic affairs, and shuts out Vice President for Student Affairs C. Scully Stokes.

Stokes later said the students' statement reflects their viewpoint rather than his own viewpoint. He said he is undecided whether to seek one of the new administrative positions.

Two charged in disturbance

John M. Schumate, 24, of 2040 Alton Ave., Madison, was arrested last week and charged with disorderly conduct and battery.

Police were called to 3205 Kirkpatrick Homes and as they came in the front door Schumate allegedly ran out the back yelling obscenities. He allegedly ran through several yards, with police in pursuit, and then back to 3205 Kirkpatrick Homes, the residence of Elaine Lance.

He then reportedly began choking her.

At 9:32 p.m. police received another disturbance call to the Lance residence.

Upon arrival, police said they found Elaine Lance standing outside in the 3200 block of Kirkpatrick, yelling obscenities which had alarmed neighbors.

She refused to stop yelling and began fighting and kicking police, officers reported.

She was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $137.

BANKING MADE EASY. Ernest Roulund, 2628 Benton St., is pictured using the new Granite City Bank Total Teller automated machine, at 3030 Madison Ave. Roulund was one of the first bank customers to use the new service. He remarked that the machine is "Fantastic!"

Voter registration centers

A special registration center will be established from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday at National Food Store, across from Granite City High School South. Voters also may register

Saturday, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the West Madison Memorial Center on West Third St.

Voters also may register any weekday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the office of Granite City Clerk Robert W. Stevens in city hall.

The deadline for registering for the Nov. 4 election is Oct. 7.

Retirement age can affect Social Security benefits

"People who are thinking about retiring at the end of the year should start making some serious plans now," Oliver Holmes, Social Security district manager in East St. Louis, said this week.

"And," Holmes said, "those plans should include Social Security. There are several factors a person should consider."

"First, a person under 65 considering retirement should remember that his or her Social Security benefit will be permanently reduced if received before 65. The amount of the reduction depends on the number of months a person gets benefits before 65."

Car wash aids Explorer post

Several local business firms aided Explorer Post 253, which staged a successful car wash the past weekend at Yates Mobilgas, Namecki and Ponton roads.

One of the newer groups of local Explorers, Post 253 is sponsored by the Granite City Fire Department.

Serving as advisers are Fire Captain Eddie McGovern and Pam Bishop.

Among the Explorers participating in the fund-raising project were Scott Allen, Jim Cagle, Marty Clark, Jeff Crisel, Jim Hillmer and David Hooker.

Assisting the group were Scott and Mark Pulliam. Business firms helping included Crews Liquor, Bloodworth Realty, Carl Hoffman Realty, R&R Carpet Re-Max Realty, Sobel Realty and Century-21-Royce Realty, the advisers said.

"The reduction amounts to 20 percent at age 62; 13 one-third percent at 63; and 6 two-thirds percent at 64. The reduction is figured by the number of months a person is under age 65. Future cost-of-living benefit increases will also be reduced by the same amount."

"Other factors can influence a person's decision to retire," Holmes said. "Availability of a company pension could be a factor. So could the person's ability to continue working."

"At any rate, a person should apply for Social Security retirement checks two or three months before he or she reaches 65, even though he or she has no retirement plans. This will ensure that the person has full Medicare protection at the earliest possible time."

"A person should have certain information ready when applying. A person needs his or her Social Security card or a record of the number."

"Next, proof of date of birth is needed. An official record of birth or baptism recorded early in life is preferred. If this is not available, a person should submit the best evidence available."

"Forms W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement) or self-employment tax returns for the past two years should be available. These are needed so that all of a person's earnings can be considered in figuring benefits."

"A husband or wife who is also applying should have the same documents. Birth certificates of any eligible children are needed.

"Do not delay applying if any evidence is not available. Call your Social Security office. The people there can tell what other evidence may be used."

"A free leaflet, Thinking About Retiring?, is available at the office. The office is located at 650 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis, or 210 W. Main St., Belleville, 274-1100 or toll-free at Enterprise 1555.

A Teen Challenge Rally will be held at The Rock Church, 1917 State St., hosting Bill Cuneo, director of St. Louis Teen Challenge, on Sunday, Sept. 21, at 6 p.m., where Rev. Gordon Nelson is the pastor.

A film, "Night Song," will be shown. This film, produced by Heartland Productions, Inc., combines humor, suspense, action, and tragedy, to bring today's family face to face with the solutions to life's day to day problems, even impossible problems faced by many of today's teenagers.

'Hostage' flag flying

The traditional Amvet Day celebration at Amvets Post 51, held during the weekend at the Post Home, 5100 Lakewood Drive, had a dual significance this year.

In addition to a day of fun for all Amvet families, more than 150 members and guests attending witnessed the presentation of a "Remember The Hostages" flag to the post by the Amvets Auxiliary unit.

Accepting the colorful pennant on behalf of Post 51 was Commander Kenneth Seibert, who said, "The flag will be displayed at all times at the local post home."

The flag was purchased by the auxiliary and formally presented to Seibert by Glenda Brockman, auxiliary president, and Betty Wilkens, Americanism chairman.

A resolution has been introduced in the Illinois General Assembly, directing that the flag be flown at appropriate state facilities.

The flag's designer, Ken Ogelsby of Springfield, Ill., incorporated several aspects of the hostage situation in his work.

On a field of deep blue at the left side of the banner, eight white stars represent the U.S. servicemen who died in the aborted rescue attempt of the hostages.

The stars encircle the numerals "53" honoring those taken hostage in Iran. The right segment of the banner represents the red and white Canadian flag, centered with a maple leaf. The flag pays tribute to Canada, whose embassy personnel aided in the escape of six United States diplomats from Iran.

Today, Sept. 18, marks the 320th day in captivity for the American hostages in Iran. During the Amvet Day festivities, members of the service organization and their families participated in a barbecue picnic, followed with dancing.

10-year-old banjoist outplays seasoned vets

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Ever since he was in the first grade, Craig Varble wanted to play a banjo and his ambition was to become a top banjoist has never changed.

Last week, the 10-year-old Pontoon Beach boy won the first place award in a Missouri bluegrass festival, besting many competitors two and three times his own age.

Craig won the top spot for his banjo artistry in the Fort Westside Bluegrass Festival, held at Bourbon, Mo.

In the festival, he scored the highest number of points among the contestants, all of whom were adults, with the exception of one 17-year-old.

Craig's accomplishment last week in taking on adult banjo artists and finishing in the top spot is not the first time this has happened. The youthful musician came in first last year in a music talent show near Carrollton, Ill.

Already a seasoned performer at 10, Craig picks his banjo on Friday nights at the Troy Opry in Troy, Ill.

He has played with Grandpa Jones at the Ozark Folk Center in Mountain View, Ark., and is considered by veteran performers as having a bountiful supply of talent for one so young.

Craig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Beverly) Varble, 28 Victoria Drive, Pontoon Beach. He is a fifth grade pupil at Mitchell School.

"He wanted to play a banjo when he was in first grade, so we got him one and he picked it up very quickly," his mother said.

TOP PERFORMER. Craig Varble, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Beverly) Varble, 28 Victoria Drive, who took first place among banjo artists at the Fort Westside Bluegrass Festival in Bourbon, Mo. With the exception of one youth, 17, all other musicians in the contest were adults.

Craig took two years of banjo lessons, but ended his formal training when his instructor admitted the boy was outgrowing the teacher.

Since then, Craig has learned various techniques by listening to records and practicing on his own, Mrs. Varble said.

"He's also picked up ideas from bluegrass shows we've gone to," the mother commented.

Craig is a member of the River Bluff Traditional Music Society in Alton, where he is quite at home with his adult counterparts.

Playing banjo, the five-string variety, is his main interest and has been for some years.

"He does sound pretty good," his mother admitted.

15 firemen to be examined for side effects of PCB exposure

City officials may have underestimated the danger from chemicals involved in a fire July 14 at American Steel Foundries, the city council discovered during its meeting Tuesday night.

Assistant Fire Chief George Smolich told the council that 15 firemen, who were exposed to smoke from the burning chemical polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) are to be examined by a doctor for possible side effects.

Some have complained of nausea, headaches and dizziness since the fire and "the men are concerned," Smolich said.

Under an agreement with Granite City Steel, the firemen will be examined free by the steel company's doctor, and fluid and tissue samples then will be sent to a laboratory for examination. The $25 per man laboratory fee will be paid by the city, but attempts will be made to have American Steel reimburse the city for the tests, Smolich said.

PCB chemicals are toxic to fish and wildlife and can cause liver damage and other problems in humans, experts contend. PCBs now being found in Cahokia dunes have made area-wide headlines in the past week, but have no local effect.

Alderman Lloyd Bailey of the Fifth Ward, who has expressed concern about the PCB danger from American Steel since the fire, said there have been several recent reports of pregnant cats losing their babies and of a squirrel which went "berserk" in the past week.

The fire was in the capacitor room of the foundry and involved capacitors containing PCBs.

Paula Cason, head of the city's Air Pollution Control Department said last week that measurements of the air showed no increases in the levels of phenyls in the air and she concluded that the PCBs had probably been incinerated in the fire and there was no danger to the population.

She also told the Press-Record that testing of the effluent at the sewage treatment plant showed no signs of PCBs or phenyls in the water or sewage, and was quoted in the Sept. 8 issue.

At Tuesday night's city council meeting, however, Terrence McMillan, superintendent of the sewage treatment plant, disagreed, and said his tests showed the phenyl level in the sewage after the fire was the highest in the city's history and exceeded the state standard by three times the allowed amount.

He said he had no way of knowing whether the high phenyl level was from PCBs or from other harmless substances which contain phenyls.

The state standard for phenyls is one-tenth of a milligram per litre and measurements at the sewage treatment plant July 25 showed three-tenths of a milligram per litre. "This has been the highest ever. The last time (it exceeded the state standard) it was two-tenths," McMillan told the council.

Smolich said he is hoping for a clean bill of health for the 15 firemen who fought the blaze, but said, "Even if there are no immediate side effects, it is difficult to know (the long range effects). There are no pat answers to it."

Smolich estimated that between 24 and 30 quarts of PCBs were involved in the fire. "Even if they were incinerated, the firemen were in the smoke," he added.

On a motion by Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward, the council voted to make a permanent record of the fire and of the medical reports on the firemen, "so if effects are reported later, we could refer back to that," Fisk said.

He also criticized city officials who said there was no danger from the chemicals in the fire. "To say there is no effect (danger) is in injustice to the public," he added.

American Steel had planned to replace the capacitors which contained PCBs with new capacitors not using the dangerous chemicals. However, the replacement had not been completed when the fire started, company officials told fire investigators.

8 openings for Indiana weekend

The Granite City Park District still has eight openings for a three-day trip to Brown County, Ind., on the weekend of Oct. 17-19. The cost of the trip is determined by the number of persons staying in each room. Roundtrip bus fare is $27.50 per person.

Reservations must be made in person at the Wilson Park office, with the fees for two nights lodging and bus fare paid at that time. A minimum of 40 participants is required to make the trip possible, a park spokesman advised.

New business to locate in new industrial park

Plans for an 11 acre industrial park for light industry at the corner of Route 2 (formerly Route 151) and Rock Road, were announced at Tuesday night's Granite City Council meeting and were referred to the city's Plan Commission for study and a recommendation.

One company, F.W. Means & Co., a commercial laundry, already has purchased three-fourths of an acre to construct its general offices and a distribution point for its trucks, the developers confirmed. They are planning to construct a 54 by 96-foot building in the near future.

3-D, Inc., a corporation of David, Dan and Donald Partney Jr., is developing the 11-acre tract and plan to name it in honor of their late father as Donald W. Partney Sr. Industrial Park.

Partney Sr. was mayor of Granite City for many years until Mayor Paul Schuler won the office seven years ago.

"Dad always had that tract in mind for an industrial park," Dan Partney told the Press-Record.

He said it has not been determined if the lots will be sold to individual businesses or if the Partneys will be the developers and will continue the ownership.

He did say the property is zoned B for business use and only business and light industry will be allowed in the new industrial park.

'A winning team' sets UW goal at $685,000

The United Way campaign got off to a good start late last week as nearly 200 volunteers met for breakfast and prepared to raise more than $685,000 for 15 charitable organizations in the Quad-City area.

PHOTO AT TOP RIGHT—J. L. Eisenbeis, drive chairman, made six completed passes to the division chairman, as the breakfast followed the theme of a football team made up entirely of "winners." Car hits barricade, metal hits boy, 14

Kenneth Griggs, 14, of 2009 Missouri Ave. was struck on the back of the head while walking at 5:05 p.m. Monday. He was hit by a metal object that had been knocked into the air by an auto at the 20th Street railroad crossing. The boy was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The crossing currently is blocked to vehicular traffic to allow for work by railroad crews. But a grey car occupied by an elderly couple proceeded along 20th Street and struck a barricade, deflecting an angle iron that formed part of the base of the barricade. The motorist then drove away from the area.

Jane needs to be more independent

Department of Children and Family Services) Jane is a teenage girl who needs foster parents to help her learn to be independent. She is 16 years old, tall, with brown hair and brown eyes. She is moody on occasion, but has a nice personality and is usually well behaved.

She is now a senior, and has had part-time jobs. Jane needs parents or possibly a single foster mother who will help her learn to be independent and keep a steady job. She needs well-structured people to help her set goals and encourage her to accept responsibilities of everyday life.

Those who are interested in Jane, or in foster care in general, may call the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, Granite City office at 876-8985 and ask for Shirley Faber.

A board check of $171 to $212 per child is paid per month, depending on the age of the child. Medical, dental and pharmaceutical expenses are also paid by the state.

Family life—increased pressure, expectations

By CAROL TAVRIS
(Sixth of 15 articles on "American Families in Transition". Copyright 1980 by the Regents of the University of California.)

People today are divided about whether or not there has been a sexual revolution. Two general attitudes seem to prevail.

One denies the existence of the sexual revolution, maintaining that most people are still doing whatever they used to do—or still not doing what they never did.

The other attitude holds that the sexual revolution occurred in the early 1960s and everyone is now doing what he or she would never have dreamed of doing.

In fact, there is some truth in both views.

There has been no "revolution," if by that we mean a sudden upheaval in values that has caused everyone to take lovers as often as they take aspirin.

However, there has been a revolutionary change in our expectations about sex, a change that has caused new anxieties about our sexual behavior.

And there has also been a rapidly accelerating evolution in sexual behavior, but the starting date for that trend was 1900, not 1960.

For example, Alfred C. Kinsey's landmark studies in male sexual behavior (1948) and female sexual behavior (1953) found that women born before the turn of the century were much more likely to be virgins at marriage than those born after 1900.

By the 1950s, half of the wives Kinsey interviewed had had premarital sex.

The many sexual surveys conducted since Kinsey find several significant changes in the sex lives of the majority of Americans in the last generation.

1. Premarital sex is no longer considered by many to be taboo, shameful, or rare. It is virtually universal among engaged women and practiced by a great majority of single women.

2. Experimentation with sexual practices is becoming more common. Oral sex, once regarded as a perversion or a sin, is now accepted by a majority of couples.

3. The double standard which lingers in attitudes has almost vanished in behavior. In Kinsey's day, half of his married men but only 26 percent of his married women had had an extramarital affair by age 40. Today, about 50 percent of both sexes have had at least one extramarital affair.

4. "Public" sex—in movies, pornography, magazines, research—has brought the discussion of sexuality to public attention, creating new standards and expectations while questioning old ones.

SEX AND THE ECONOMIC ORDER.

Sexual attitudes and acts are reflections of the social and economic order.

For virtually all of human history, the unpredictability of pregnancy and the consequences of pregnancy to the woman, her family, and the tribal unit, meant that a network of rules had to be established.

When births could not be controlled, women had to be.

Social scientists, studying the varieties of sexual roles around the world, find that standards of sexual freedom or repressiveness have their origin in nonsexual events.

Some societies, such as those throughout Polynesia, permit both boys and girls to have sex before marriage.

Other societies restrict license to boys, but punish girls for sexual activity.

Why the different rules? Anthropologist Ernestine Friedl finds that permissiveness occurs in societies that do not require a large-scale property exchange at marriage, that is, where marriage is not an economic alliance between families.

When weddings involve high bride prices or dowries, a high premium is placed on a girl's virginity.

As marriage evolves away from being a means of property exchange, with women as the units of currency, the premium on female virginity fades, as it has in the United States.

TECHNOLOGY AND SEX. The sexual "revolution" has not recently changed or threatened the essence of the traditional family, as some conservatives argue; changes in the traditional family permitted changes in sexual mores.

One could argue, as historian Carl Degler does, that American families have never been all that "traditional" anyway.

The United States, since the Revolutionary War, has always been a system that fostered individualism, marriage for love, and "the pursuit of happiness"—these standards set the stage for modern sexual liberation.

The Industrial Revolution in the late 19th Century broke the alliance of family and church and their unified power over individual behavior.

Technology assured the rapid growth of large, impersonal cities—where people were not under the watchful control of relatives, neighbors, and parson—and Henry Ford's Model T did much to advance teenage sex in America.

But of all the technological developments that accelerated the rate of sexual change, none did more than "the pill" and the IUD.

For the first time in human history, women had a simple, reliable form of birth control which meant they could have sexual relations without fear of pregnancy.

Some observers think the pill single druggedly caused the sexual renaissance of the 1960s, but evidence shows the trend toward sexual permissiveness was well under way long before the pill.

By the 1960s, then, a unique configuration of events had occurred: sex was no longer predominated, shaking off the nation that sex was unhealthy, abnormal or sinful, and birth control had become accessible and reliable.

It is only in the last few years that reports of the potentially dangerous side effects of the pill and IUD have caused many women to stop using them.

There was no good reason "not to do it," many concluded in the 1960s.

SEX, MARRIAGE, AND PROTECTION. The sexual renaissance of the 1960s had the consequences of there being "no consequences" to sexual behavior?

What were the consequences that could be disentangled?

When procreation can be planned, sex for sex's sake—for pleasure's sake—becomes a possibility, for women as well as men.

The responsibility for sexual behavior shifted from the institutions of marriage and religion to the individual: each person had to establish personal rules of sexual conduct.

Second, many people believe, sex and marriage could be disentangled.

When people do not have to marry in order to have frequent, enjoyable, "legitimate" sex, and when marriage does not automatically entail a bevy of babies, motives for getting married change.

When marriage no longer is an economic alliance that requires the production of heirs, but rather an emotional alliance based on love and lust, the fundamental nature and purpose of the institution have changed.

Economic alliances produce low expectations. If the husband does his job (makes money), and the wife does hers (makes babies), it is a happy marriage.

But emotional alliances take the ceiling off expectations: subjective standards for a happy marriage are almost impossible to achieve constantly.

Add to this subjective standards for sexual happiness, and the "powder keg" of the sexual revolution is lit.

If sex isn't a duty, then it must be a delight; and if it isn't a delight, what am I doing here?

RIISING EXPECTATIONS.

And there is one aspect of sexual change in America that can truly be called revolutionary: the revolution of rising expectations, which has less to do with bodily sex than with mental sex.

The astonishing media explosion of information about sexuality, sexual problems and sexual possibilities now offers people a smorgasbord of choices—and dilemmas.

No doubt this information has helped thousands of people to realize that they are not sick, or dirty, or alone in their sexual practices.

Yet, the same information has created new norms and, therefore, new pressures.

In just a few decades, for example, women went from worrying about whether it was all right to have orgasms, not worrying about which kind was "normal," to worrying about whether they were having enough orgasms, in the right way.

Men used to complain that women didn't enjoy sex; now many complain that women enjoy sex too much.

Large numbers of people seem to think that everyone else is having more sex and better sex and, as a result, sex therapists report, many women feel bitter or vaguely dissatisfied.

Everybody expects a satisfying sex life and a spouse who knows how to provide it.

With the once-tight bond between sex and marriage severed, couples today are exploring new connections.

Some prefer to endure harsh rules that restrain them rather than to suffer the anxiety of no rule at all.

Others make their own rules. And some seek sexual "liberation" at the expense of committed relationships.

Faust discovered, all knowledge has a price. So does change.

SIU seeks hike in state funding

State funds being sought to operate the Southern Illinois University system for fiscal year 1982, beginning July 1, 1981, total $168,100,000, an increase of 14.6 percent over the current fiscal year.

Requests were approved in mid-September by the SIU Board of Trustees as part of the Resource Allocation and Management Program (RAMP), the document required by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) for communicating the university's planning decisions and resource requirements for the next fiscal year.

The total proposed increase of $21,500,000 is based principally on salary and price increase guidelines of 10 percent for all employees; eight percent for general price increases; 15 percent for library materials; 17.2 percent for SIU at Carbondale; 33 percent for the SIU School of Medicine; and 20.4 percent for SIU at Edwardsville utility price increases.

The increase also includes $3.8 million for new and expanded programs and other special items; $2.9 million for special salary increase funds to raise median salaries to the median level of comparable salaries at other universities; and $172,000 for operation and maintenance of new space.

By units, the operating budget requests, excluding retirement contributions, are:

SIU—$96.3 million; SIUC School of Medicine—$21.6 million; SIU at Edwardsville—$44.5 million; SIUE School of Dental Medicine—$4.6 million; office of the chancellor—$1 million; and system total—$168.1 million.

University officials pointed out that—exclusive of the special salary increase funds and an adjustment for "Financial Guideline Programs"—the net increase requested for the system is $19.2 million, representing a 13 percent increase over the 1981 fiscal year operating base budget.

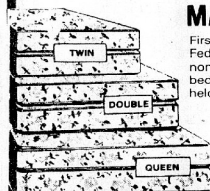

Funds generated by Financial Guideline Programs are deposited in the universities' income fund in accord with Legislative Audit Commission guidelines.

An IBHE policy requires that these programs generate their own funds to cover salary and price increases.

CB jamboree nets $6,000 for charity and seniors

More than $6,000 was raised for charity by the first annual Granite City CBers jamboree, a final tally from the Aug. 30 and 31 event showed this week.

The event was held at the Granite City Township building and was designed primarily to raise funds for charity and for the Granite City Township's senior citizens program.

After expenses, 75 percent of the proceeds were donated to Shriner's Children's Hospital and 25 percent was given to the senior citizens.

Special events coordinated by the CBers whose "hand" is "Strawberry Farmer" raised another $260 for the Reyes Syndrome Foundation, Northwestern Illinois Chapter, and $507 was raised for CBers "Popeye and Olive Oil." Popeye suffered severe burns earlier this year, and the donation will be used to purchase special shoes for him, a spokesman for the group said.

Special awards were given for the following categories: Largest club in the state—the Soy City Breakers of Decatur with 53 members; Largest out-of-state club represented—a tie between the North East Arkansas Club and the Paragould, Ark. area club, each with 27 members.

The Illinois club which traveled furthest to attend—a tie between the El Comancheros of Peoria and Hot Line, USA, also of Peoria.

The out-of-state club which travelled furthest to attend—the Helping Hand C.B. Club of Milan, Ind., which came 340 miles.

Best dressed club—Liberty Land CB Club of Memphis, Tenn., first, and the Big D CB Club of Dyerburg, Tenn., second.

Best dressed couple not in a club uniform—"Too Tall" and "Traveling Man" of Senath, Mo.

Prizes also were awarded each day, including two color television sets, a microwave oven, a radio, a bicycle and other items. Local residents receiving prizes were Wayne Holt of Granite City, who won the bicycle, and "Starlett" of Granite City, winner of the microwave oven.

The Press-Record was present for some of the activities, but, due to a technical problem, the photos were not usable.

A highlight of the two-day jamboree was a dinner-dance Saturday night. Music was supplied by the Country Addition of Granite City and hundreds of persons attended, according to a club spokesman.

A statement was issued by the organizers this week thanking the merchants, clubs and individuals who contributed to the first annual jamboree and helped make it "a wonderful success."

Self-help housing program expanding

Low and moderate income residents of Madison County are being invited to apply to participate in a new Self-Help Housing Program in which members of the families that will own and occupy a group of houses actually help build them.

The program is being sponsored by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission. The EOC proposes to build about 25 of the self-help homes in the next two years in rural areas of the county.

Eligible are those who can meet the credit qualifications for a Farmers Home Administration loan and who are capable of working 30 hours per week on construction.

FHA loans enough money to complete the home, depending on the family's ability to repay the loan. The average house built under this program could cost from $22,000 to $35,000.

Qualifying for the program includes joining a self-help housing association consisting of six to eight families. Each family must attend 12 organizational and informational meetings and work 30 hours per week on construction.

Each family member works on all six to eight houses in their association. Interest credits are available for families with yearly incomes of $11,200 or less.

More information may be obtained from Dave Taylor at 1-258-0246 or 1-258-1230.

More than 6,000 low income families in the United States have built self-help homes in the last 10 years.

Employer Reunion for '70 interviews Madison HS grads

Students who want to begin their job hunt by talking to prospective employers visiting Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during October and November may pick up interview schedules now at University Placement Services.

The first day to sign up is Sept. 24 for interviews beginning Oct. 2.

"It's going to be a busy year," said David Van Horn, placement director. The October calendar is almost filled, with 39 organizations sending up to 50 representatives, including those looking for Christmas season workers.

Following the national pattern, recruiters will be looking first for graduates who can fill entry level positions in engineering, computer science, accounting and sales. He said there is less demand for other opportunity in business, science and humanities.

Van Horn said the first two fall months are the peak recruiting periods for many industries. He advised students who will graduate in June or August 1981 to begin the job hunting process now by registering with Placement Services and completing the required resume.

"If they wait until May or June, the decisions will be made and the positions filled," he said. "The closer to June, the fewer the companies that come to campus."

Recent graduates may also sign up for interviews, provided they are registered and have a resume on file.

All interviews are arranged by majors through an advance sign-up system for specific appointment times.

The 1970 graduating class at Madison Senior High School will hold its 10-year reunion Saturday evening, Oct. 25, at the Madison Firemen's Hall, it was announced this week.

A group of classmates, responsible for arranging the event, reports that invitations have been mailed to most of the 1970 graduates.

Those having received notices of the reunion are asked to complete and return the invitations immediately, so final arrangements can be made.

A number of former students could not be reached, however. Anyone knowing the whereabouts, or having a recent address of the following graduates is asked to call 482-6185 (Charlie) or 876-5657 (Donna) as soon as possible: Sonya Burke, Dennis Byrd, James Byrd, Rosemary Campbell, William Cannon, Chuck Dandridge, Dennis Day, Piper Dandridge, Donald Franklin, Helen Pifer, Judith Gilliam, Evon Hamm, Dennis Hampton, Jacob Harmon, Tecumseh Holmes, Willis Kitchen, Leonard Latham, Delores Leonard, Lawson Mason, Larry Mosby, Tom Noel, Laveria Powers, Deborah Powers, William Price, Patricia Pritchard, Joe Pryor, Mary Sheriff, LaFan Smiley.

Kenny Williamson's name son Nicholas

Nicholas Owen is the name selected by Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Williamson, 2223 Edison Ave., for their first child born on Sunday, Sept. 14, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The new arrival weighed seven pounds, eight ounces. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Williamson and great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Day. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Thebeau and great-grandparents, Mrs. Edna Jackson and the late John Jackson, all of Granite City.

Board requests accounting and dental programs

Final budget requests for four new programs and nine program expansions for the 1982 fiscal year (July 1981-June 1982) at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were approved last week by the SIU Board of Trustees.

Also approved were a special analytical study for library resources and a program resource summary for new and expanded or improved programs.

All of the requests, which become part of the university's Resource Allocation and Management program (RAMP) planning documents, will be submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) for consideration.

The new programs and funding amounts requested, given preliminary approval by the board in July, include: $30,000 for the Certificate Program in Endodontics, which has received previous approval by the board but has not been approved by the IBHE; the Bachelor of Science in Accountancy, which also is being resubmitted and for which no funding is sought; and two new programs.

Supplemental state funds are being requested for the certificate program in Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery, $23,000, and Bachelor of Science Major in Home Economics, $100,600. The home economics program would be offered at the university's East St. Louis center.

The nine program expansion requests and the amounts proposed for development funds include: Academic Resource Center, $63,600; Bachelor of Science Major in Construction, $19,600; Doctor of Dental Medicine, $175,000.

Engineering Bachelor of Science, $80,200; Nursing, Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses, $108,660; Census Use Project, $25,900; Continuing Education, $27,100; Master of Public Administration, $43,321; and Professional Experience Program, $25,776.

The special analytical study requests $114,600 in additional state funds to support library needs of developing programs in dentistry, engineering and nursing.

Helping baby-sitter do best possible job

By CATHERINE MAUCK

Madison County

Home Economics Adviser

A number of parents go to great lengths to hire baby-sitters who have been recommended by other parents they know and trust. But even the most highly recommended baby-sitter needs a helping hand from parents in order to do a good job.

Keep the following guidelines in mind each and every time you hire a baby-sitter.

—Ask the baby-sitter to arrive early so you can become better acquainted, can introduce the children to the sitter without a rush, and can explain any instructions. The small amount you'll have to pay for an extra 30 minutes of the sitter's time is a good investment.

—Establish how much you will pay the sitter on the telephone when you are making arrangements to hire him or her. That way, both of you know what to expect and you can avoid strained feelings after you return from a hard day at work or after an evening of relaxation.

—Never "sneak out" when the children are not looking. Always say goodbye. Let the children know that you are leaving the sitter in charge and expect them to give him or her the same respect that you yourself receive. Younger children may shed tears when you do say goodbye, but they often become much more frightened and upset if they think the parent has abandoned them.

—If you've hired a sitter who has never been to your home before, take the time to tour the house with him or her. Indicate the location of the telephone, light switches, the thermostat, the fuse or circuit-breaker box, first-aid supplies and escape routes to be used in case of emergency.

—Supply the sitter with a flashlight for emergencies and the name of a neighbor to whom he or she can turn to for help. Also write down the telephone number and address where you will be, your doctor's name and phone number, and a signed medical treatment card, often available from your hospital or trauma center, that will authorize emergency care for your children if you cannot be located.

—Give precise written instructions if your child needs medication. Also, write down any other special care instructions. While you're busy getting to know your sitter, he or she is trying to know both you and your children and make a good impression as well as learn your instructions, all at the same time.

A written list of such details can help the sitter keep all special needs in mind and refresh his or her memory after things have calmed down.

—If you can't feed your children before you leave, write a specific menu list—the less complicated, the better.

Be sure to list snacks for both children and sitter and don't be hesitant to note that the chocolate cake you've baked for tomorrow's potluck supper is "off limits" to all.

—Return home at the pre-arranged time or call if you will be late. If the baby-sitter has a "curfew" time set by his or her parents, respect it or you may be unable to hire the sitter again. Provide the sitter with transportation home, especially after dark, unless he or she has made other arrangements.

Bombing shows need for vigilance on organized crime

The organized crime syndicate tries to keep a "low profile" in this metropolitan area, just as it formerly sought to do nationally. But yesterday's south St. Louis County bombing murder of James A. "Jimmy" Michaels Sr. of the Syrian faction serves as a reminder that the underworld still exists, although its goals and tactics change somewhat with the passing years.

Whether it was a coincidence or not, the auto bombing on Interstate 55—the 16th in this region in the past two decades—occurred while the International Association of Chiefs of Police was meeting in St. Louis. The chief's guest speakers this week have included the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

It is unknown whether the Michaels death is related in any way to the death from natural causes 19 days earlier of Anthony Giordano, reigning St. Louis organized crime boss. Some authorities speculate that a power struggle is occurring, but this is doubted by Roy B. Kiffer, special agent in charge of the FBI here.

Michaels, once known as "Horseshoe Billy," is described by authorities as a member of the former "Cuckoo Gang" that participated in the Prohibition-era bootlegging industry.

Both the Giordano and Michaels names bring to mind the late Frank "Buster" Wortman, who led syndicate activities in Madison and St. Clair counties and had a friendly relationship with the two friendly counties.

The St. Louis area crime group, in addition to its interest in Southern Illinois, has had ties with Chicago, Kansas City, Detroit and New York. Its main emphasis currently is said to include loan sharking, gambling and narcotics.

Sean McWeeney, national chief of the FBI's organized crime section, told the police chiefs' group that the syndicate's racketeering now includes federal food stamp fraud and close cooperation with certain motorcycle gangs.

Wortman and one of his relatives once walked Quaker City streets but this community has been largely free of organized crime infiltration for a number of years, thanks to courageous stands by local citizens.

Timely aid was given at key times by Governors Adlai Stevenson and William Strickland, who ordered state police to raid illegal casinos and racing bet parlors in this community. Records confiscated by authorities revealed lucrative operations, with high-stakes games and an impressively large volume of money changing hands.

There is a refreshingly new and different era here. But the Michaels case underscores the fact that organized crime is still flourishing regionally and across the nation. Vigilance must be the watchword.

Price to study levee cash crisis

U.S. Congressman Melvin Price has agreed to come to Granite City at 10 a.m. Monday, Oct. 6, to meet with officials of the Metro-East Sanitary District and discuss possible solutions to the financial plight the district is in.

Russell Robinson, president of the sanitary district, said he will be at the meeting and told board members and area officials, "Your presence is requested because the fate of the district is at stake."

Possible answers for the cash-flow problems include a tax increase, enlarging the district and splitting the district.

Both candidates are lawyers but not judges, although Welch served as a Third Judicial Circuit magistrate from November 1965 to June 1971.

Two judges and an attorney were defeated in the Democratic primary voting on March 18, and Republicans failed to nominate anyone. After a court battle this summer, the GOP obtained approval to put Welch on the fall ballot.

Republican interest in the contest increased dramatically after Mays' surprise victory. The GOP's Democratic rivals had won Illinois State Bar Association endorsement; Mays, in contrast, received a negative recommendation. The GOP sensed a possible victory this fall and launched an active campaign.

But the Democrat already has proven he has considerable voting ability. A former city clerk of East St. Louis (where he operates a senior citizen center) and a former Golden Gloves boxer, the banham currently is in its worst crisis since World War II.

The Madison County Board on Wednesday authorized borrowing $601,000 from the county's motor fuel tax fund to finance the regional sanitary sewerage installation program in Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice townships pending a final inspection and release of federal funds for the project.

An unemployment compensation seminar and luncheon is set for 12 noon to 2 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 23, at the SIUE Mississippi Room.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused Wednesday to reconsider its June ruling that the federal and state governments need not pay for most abortions wanted by women on welfare.

Gov. James R. Thompson today is signing new laws regulating hazardous waste. On Wednesday, he signed legislation to promote employment in small businesses through state loans.

The senior citizen fair will be held in the SIUE University Center tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., featuring a coffee reception, a speaker on aging, entertainment, art and craft displays, a pottery demonstration and workshops on crime and inflation.

Ronald Davinroy, 23rd Congressional District candidate, was among officials and candidates joining with Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan in vowing to cut taxes, improve the nation's defenses and stimulate employment. The gathering took place Monday in Washington.

Patients admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 14-Beverly Schutzenhofer, Pam Lucash, Sharon Causey, Thelma May, Pauline Marsh, Florence Powers, all of Granite City; Arvilla Richardson, Mitchell; Sherri Skundrich, Jessie Wait and Dora Kohn, all of Madison; Mary Louise Kirkland, Collinsville; Dora Robinson and Marcia Maas, both of Edwardsville; and Wendy Armon and Mary Cordon, both of East St. Louis.

Monday—John A. Robinson and Sheila Evans, both of Madison; Pat Pearman, Christina Kelley, Vernon Brown, Wilbert Smith, Robyn Tongay, Leanna Gorris, Emma Strubberg, Larry Rigby, Darryl Gaines, Janice Bailey, Angela Hogan, Edna White, William Zinn, Margaret Wilson, all of Granite City; and Carlene Wright, East St. Louis.

Tuesday—Sybil A. Townsend, Regina Sutton, Pat Heath, Harold Siebert, Eugenia Francis, Don Costello, John Gregory, Mary Schirmer and Virginia Webb, all of Granite City; Kenneth Lawrence, Madison; and Debbie Hembrugh, Edwardsville.

Livey judges race pairs Mays, Welch

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

What initially shaped up as no race at all may become one of the most interesting in the Nov. 4 general election.

Contenders for the Eberspacher seat on the Fifth Appellate District Court (37 Southern Illinois counties centered around Mount Vernon) are two men from this metropolitan area, Democrat Robert B. Mays, 36, of East St. Louis and Republican Thomas M. Welch, 41, of Collinsville. Judge Edward C. Eberspacher has retired, creating the vacancy. A ten-year term is at stake as well as $570,000; the judicial position pays $57,000 per year.

Both candidates are lawyers but not judges, although Welch served as a Third Judicial Circuit magistrate from November 1965 to June 1971.

Two judges and an attorney were defeated in the Democratic primary voting on March 18, and Republicans failed to nominate anyone. After a court battle this summer, the GOP obtained approval to put Welch on the fall ballot.

Republican interest in the contest increased dramatically after Mays' surprise victory. The GOP's Democratic rivals had won Illinois State Bar Association endorsement; Mays, in contrast, received a negative recommendation. The GOP sensed a possible victory this fall and launched an active campaign.

But the Democrat already has proven he has considerable voting ability. A former city clerk of East St. Louis (where he operates a senior citizen center) and a former Golden Gloves boxer, the banham currently is in its worst crisis since World War II.

"I won't be prejudiced against wealthy people," Welch announced. "I won't be prejudiced against minorities. But they have the power and ability to take care of themselves, and the poor and the minorities don't always have that ability."

"It's the responsibility of the court system to protect them. If you protect their rights, you protect everybody."

"The role of an appellate judge is to interpret and apply the law to the changing situations in society, and to harmonize the laws passed by the legislature to a society that is very dynamic."

"The salary as judge is a lot of money, but it won't change me. I still drive my 1965 Mustang and I still live in East St. Louis. I wasn't brought up on material trappings."

"The wealthiest and happiest people I've known didn't have a lot of money. Good health, a good wife and healthy kids—those are the things I need for real happiness," Mays tells voters.

Welch, a partner in the law firm of Welch, Welch and Welch in Collinsville, was employed by the appellate judiciary since 1971, describes the appellate judgeship as "an elective office where the voters will have a real choice in November."

"I have been certified as the Republican candidate, and I enter this contest with the credentials that are needed. I have the experience and the aptitude for this job."

"I am an experienced trial judge, a past assistant county prosecutor, a city attorney and an experienced attorney."

"These past experiences, coupled with my general background, provide me with the necessary tools and moral convictions to be an independent and honest judicial servant. I would maintain the integrity of our legal system," Welch pledges.

The 1967 graduate of Collinsville High School graduated from the University of Illinois in 1962 with a bachelor of science degree in industrial administration. He has attended Belleville Area College, studying aviation technology, and received the juris doctor degree in 1965 from the University of Missouri Law School, Columbia.

A commercial and instrument rated pilot, Welch flies and also the restoration of automobiles.

Following his nearly six years as a magistrate, Welch was an assistant state's attorney for Madison County in 1971-72. He has been the Collinsville city attorney since 1975.

Welch has been an escrow agent for the Farmers Home Administration from 1973 to the present time.

Licensed to practice law in Illinois and Missouri, he served as an instructor for the Illinois Judicial Magistrate Conference and taught police officers in the Lewis and Clark Community College in-service law enforcement training program.

The Collinsville resident has been admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court and U.S. District Court. He is a member of the Madison County Farm Bureau, the State Bar, the Madison County and Tri-City bar associations and St. John's Evangelical United Church of Christ in Collinsville.

His wife, Cynthia, is a Southern Illinois University graduate and a registered nurse. Their children are Katie, four years old, and Carrie, two.

His father, Mathew L. Welch, is a retired lawyer. His brother, Paul A. Welch, is an attorney. Mays, who was a bachelor when he first entered political life, was born in Champaign and has lived in East St. Louis since the age of three. He is married and a father, his latest biography notes.

He has been a teacher in the East St. Louis school system and at Assumption High School, where he graduated in 1962.

Mays ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1972, after obtaining the Republican nomination for that office.

He served in the early 1970s as an East St. Louis city commissioner in charge of streets and public improvement, and was employed by the St. Clair County Legal Aid Society before opening his own law practice.

The 1966 graduate of the University of Illinois, where he obtained a bachelor of arts degree in economics, Mays obtained the juris doctor degree in 1968 from the St. Louis University Law School. His affiliations include the Knights of Columbus, Rotary and Eagles.

Although he was not regarded by party professionals as a serious contender in this spring's primary election, the candidate had a track record that perhaps merited greater attention. He had won elective office in East St. Louis on four occasions—as commissioner, town clerk, city clerk and school board member.

On the other hand, along with losing the Congressional race, he failed in election bids for mayor of East St. Louis and township supervisor. He also lost when he sought re-election as city clerk in 1979.

He would have preferred the State Bar's endorsement as a judicial candidate, but says he was not surprised by the unfavorable rating. He comments that he does not socialize with other lawyers and is "not a member of the country club set."

Mays considers himself to be well qualified to become an appeals judge, and says his law practice has shown him people's "real problems."

Utilizing this knowledge, he began campaigning in the summer of 1979 and drove in the evenings to towns in all 37 counties. Visiting bowling lanes, service stations fruit stands and wherever else he could find people, he shook hands and chatted with over 900 Democratic precinct committeemen and the residents of more than 600 cities and villages.

Most of his work as an attorney involves defending persons faced with criminal charges.

He comments, "This has given me insight into the criminal justice system as it affects individuals. There are injustices in the system, especially toward the disadvantaged."

"A judge shouldn't have practiced law in a monetary way. The court should reflect the conscience of the people, and you don't gain that by practicing law on the 52nd floor of a building."

"Longtime judges tend to become cloistered, and lose touch with everyday problems."

"They should not make rulings with blinders on, but should apply and interpret the law in the light of changing circumstances. Precedent should be a model, but unlimited devotion to precedent robs the law of its humanity."

"The appellate court should be vigorous and innovative, not a place for old judges and rich lawyers to retire to. I haven't seen much innovation from the court."

Mays in his younger days did quite a bit of innovating for the sake of survival. He learned a wide variety of defensive and offensive tactics while participating in 150 amateur and professional fights, and he won most of them.

He began boxing in the fifth grade at parochial schools in East St. Louis, and fought as an amateur for a period of eight years, winning three Golden Gloves championships.

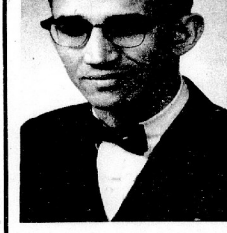

He turned professional after graduating from the University of Illinois, and chalked up 12 wins in 14 pro fights as he utilized this unusual way to work his way through law school.

Mays believes his boxing career helped give him the stamina needed to be active politically.

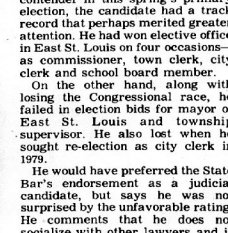

He is optimistic, pointing out that Democrats usually prevail in the appellate district, and that he has a big head start in the campaign.

Welch concedes that he is the underdog and a late starter in the judicial race, but feels that the breadth and depth of his courtroom experience will be taken into account by voters of both parties.

"And if the Reagan and Anderson presidential candidacies attract numerous conservative and liberal Republicans to the voting booths six weeks from now, this factor also could help him in his ballot fight with the former Gloves fighter."

U.S. treating farmers unfairly

To the Editor:

We pay our police and fire departments regardless if there is a crime committed, a fire or other disasters.

Why then, can't the federal government offer this kind of assurance to the American people, by giving the American farmers a guaranteed annual income?

The backbone of our nation is treated like an underdog.

GOLD FOUND

Gold was discovered Aug. 18, 1896, in the Klondike, near the Alaskan border in the Yukon District of Canada.

Is anybody in Washington, D.C., listening?

JOHN GILL, 2707 W. 22nd St.

The very people who feed us are not getting their share of the profits.

And being the kind of Americans they are, they have not gone on strike against the government.

We are losing many farm products every year because of this selfish system.

The government cannot call up the reserves to man the farms. Who, then, is going to feed us?

MILITARY SERVICE

Selective Service and Training Act was, on Aug. 18, 1941, extended for 18 months.

JOHN GILL, 2707 W. 22nd St.

Plan water lines now

To the Editor:

Slurry pipe lines for coal, etc. should be allowed anywhere or anytime, but only if the water is pumped back. This should be a federal law. Then in time, there would be many pipe lines. Water could then be pumped to areas in need or low on water and withheld from areas of abundance of water. One never knows when or where a drought would occur, or a flood for that matter.

This should be done now, as the need for this service will get more urgent as coal will be more in demand. This would really be preparing for the future of the great U.S.A. Deciding now would save a lot of hassle, mistakes and trouble in the future.

LIA SALEM. She has been attending various master classes in dance during the summer months with her mother, Marge Salem of the Salem School of Dance. She will attend dance courses at Webster College in St. Louis, this year.

GC girl at master classes

Continuing study in various forms of dance to perfect her status as a professional artist of dance is the prime objective of Lia Salem of Granite City, and has prompted her to attend a number of master dance classes during the summer months.

With her mother, Marge Salem, owner of the Salem School of Dance, Miss Salem attended a regional Dance Masters of America convention held in Atlanta, Ga. There were four days of classes in ballet, jazz, tap, acrobat and character with nationally known dance educators as instructors.

Miss Salem, who is enrolled as a senior student at North High School, also attended master classes conducted by the Joffrey Ballet Co., Webster College. The ballet company was in St. Louis at the time for performances at Kiel Opera House.

Later in the summer, the two were at a jazz dance workshop in Evanston, Ill., at the Gus Giordano Dance Center. There, they participated in day long dance classes, lecture-demonstrations, and performances by the Giordano Jazz Dance Company.

In addition to her scheduled dance studies in St. Louis, Miss Salem this year will be auditing some dance courses at Webster College, according to her mother.

Revival opens Sunday at Grace Baptist

The annual fall revival at Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., will begin Sunday, Sept. 21, with the morning worship service at 10:45. Evangelist Lee Castro of Fort Worth, Texas, who is widely known as the "Gospel-singing Troubadour," will be conducting services each evening thereafter at 7 o'clock.

Castro, who quips that he is no relation to "the infamous Castro of Cuba," at the age of 13 joined an organized gang of teenagers in Corpus Christi who called themselves the "Pan-chuchos," which in Spanish means "hugs." He carried a switchblade knife and a twenty-two caliber pistol for four years as a member of this gang.

At the age of 17, Castro left this gang—a story which he will be relating during this week of revival—and began living a changed life. It was at this time that he began to preach and sing.

He pastored his first church at age 19 in George West, Texas, and began his studies for the ministry at the University of Corpus Christi. He became an ordained minister of the Gospel in 1964.

Because of his Mexican heritage, much of Castro's work has been done with the Spanish-speaking people of Texas, Mexico, and Central and South America. He has also done his evangelistic work in India and Israel, and has done concert tours in Rome and Athens.

He comes to Grace Baptist with his son, Lee Jr., 19, and his nephew, Danny, 17, who assist him in presenting the Gospel music.

In addition to the evening services, Pastor Morris Anderson has announced that services will be held each day at 12 noon, following luncheons prepared by ladies of the various Sunday School departments. The Wednesday service will begin at 11 a.m. and will be hosted by the Jolly Sixties, a senior group of the church.

The public is invited to attend all services during the week of Sept. 21 through 28, the pastor added.

Seminar on dealing with stress offered

Research has shown that many disorders, ranging from hives to heart disease, are stress-related. It is possible for people to make changes in their life-styles that may reduce stress. But, according to Ralph Hausmann, director of social work at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, "You can't avoid all stress. People have to learn to cope with it."

How do people cope with stress? In an informal survey done at SEMC, associates talked about ways in which they relieve tension and stress.

Jackie Haug, director of physical therapy, says, "I find that taking a 20 to 30 minute nap relaxes me after a difficult day. Relaxation techniques help me to fall asleep, and after a nap, I feel much better."

Audiologist Cheryl Segal says she doesn't have much trouble relaxing. "I just go home, put my feet up and look at a magazine," she says. She also finds relief from tennis with hobbies, such as stained glass projects.

Intensive care can be high stress area to work in and Supervisor Carol Hienrichs says, "My husband can tell when I've had a bad day, I come home with a new plant." She finds that taking care of her collection of houseplants helps her relax and get her mind off of stressful situations.

She also mentions physical exercise as an effective way to deal with stress, as does Kathy Milkovich, R.N., clinical instructor. "I like to play golf, tennis or racketball," she says.

According to Karla Bargiel, R.N. of the intermediate coronary care unit, "Working out helps and I like to get in my sports car and just drive."

SEMC President Sister Mary Thomas says she goes to the chapel to pray after a hard day, "or I find someone can talk it out with."

A community seminar on stress relief will be presented by SEMC, Tuesday, Sept. 23, at 7 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room. Presented by Ralph Hausmann, Bonnie Lester and Bob Turk of the social work department, the seminar will feature information on the causes of stress, stress management, a film and personality test.

Reservations may be made by calling the public relations department at 798-3167.

Organic matter aids garden soil

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser
Adding organic matter is one of the easiest ways to improve garden soil fertility and health.

Organic matter is the remains of plants, animals and microbes in all stages of decomposition.

In the soil, decomposition rates depend on soil microorganisms, temperature, moisture, aeration, and cultivation. The higher the temperatures and the more frequent the cultivation, the more rapid the decomposition.

After a gardening season with many cultivations and the hot southwestern Illinois weather, much of the organic matter in the soil has decomposed. This will reflect on the productivity of the soil because organic matter increases the water holding capacity and the air space in the soil.

It prevents clay particles from cementing together, but helps tie sand together.

Soil temperatures and nutrient release are somewhat regulated by organic matter. And it promotes growth of microorganisms which help condition the soil.

A green manure crop grown this fall or winter can add some organic matter to the soil.

It may be a crop of anything. But rye, ryegrass, or oats that is plowed or spaded into the soil when it is green is preferred.

Now is the time to sow one of these crops in your empty garden spaces. Seeding rates per 1,000 square feet are three pounds of rye, 1/2 pound of ryegrass, or 1/2 pounds of oats.

Broadcast the seed and work it into the soil with a cultivator or rototator.

The crop may be turned into the soil in late October or it can be left until spring.

If winter time soil erosion is a problem, leave it stand until spring.

Other sources of organic matter for garden soils are manure, compost, peat moss, straw, rotted hay or any other organic products. Plan for incorporating these into the soil before planting next spring.

DISORDERLY CHARGE

Douglas J. Novach, 19, of 164 Briarwood Lane, was released on $55 bond after being charged during the weekend with disorderly conduct. When police advised a group of youths who were drinking beer on the Corral Liquor parking lot they advised them to pour out the beer. Novach allegedly opened a beer and took a drink.

Mike Glenn of the public defender's office, representing Reed, argued that Reed was mentally unstable at the time of the stabbing, and that he believed Kalgerou had taken his wallet.

Glenn asked the court to place Reed in the custody of his mother and to let him receive regular mental treatment. The state's attorney's office recommended a five-year sentence, the maximum under state law.

Judge Day sentenced Reed, with the provision that he would receive medical treatment during his incarceration.

Reed is on probation for a federal charge of interstate shipment of weapons.

Republican party in this county organized in 1856

(This is one of a series of articles about early Madison County and surrounding communities. The articles are based on material taken from the Flagg Papers, a collection of manuscripts written by the Flagg family, one of the first families to settle in Madison County. The papers are housed in the Lovejoy Library at SIUE.)

The Flagg family, from New England, were definitely anti-slavery and sought political means to prevent the extension of slavery into the Northwest Territories.

Gershon Flagg was a Whig, but that party proved inadequate to prevent passage of the Kansas-Nebraska Act, which permitted expansion of slavery into the territories. As a result, Gershon and Willard, although they did not know it at the time, were instrumental in the formation of the Republican Party in Illinois. During the year 1856, Willard and his father moved nearly as much time to anti-slavery activities as they did to farming.

Illinois residents, except for those in a few southern counties, were mostly anti-slavery, some on moral grounds and some on economic, not wanting to compete with slave labor.

However, the anti-slavery forces were split between the American Party (Know-Nothings) and the Whigs. Madison County was one of the "Know-Nothing" strongholds; one newspaper report said 300 Know-Nothings had held a secret meeting in an Alton culvert.

The Democratic Party, led by Sen. Douglas, was openly pro-slavery. The American Party skirted the issue by stressing native Americanism.

The Whigs were split over the issue. In fact, Millard Fillmore, a Whig and 13th president of the United States, succeeding after Pres. Tyler's death, favored compromise on the slavery issue and signed the Fugitive Slave Law.

Looking for an alternative to the Whig Party, Willard Flagg, at the insistence of his half-brother Volney Richmond—joined the Know-Nothings for a brief period of time.

But he was repelled by their secretiveness and their activities. Furthermore, they had nominated as their presidential candidate.

Willard resigned from the American Party and hoped his "future as a good Republican (would) remove the stain."

On May 22, 1856, Willard and his father Gershon Flagg attended an anti-slavery meeting at the Omphreth Precinct school house. At this meeting, delegates to an Edwardsville anti-slavery meeting were elected.

At the Edwardsville meeting, held May 24 and chaired by Gershon, delegates to a statewide meeting at Bloomington were elected. Gershon was one of the delegates, and Willard attended as an unofficial reporter.

A prospect of 20 more. Sarah Smith Flagg's uncle, Robert Smith, campaigned in Madison County for the Democratic Party.

One night he addressed a meeting, attended by Willard, at the local school house.

That night, he stayed with the Flagg family, where a lively debate must have ensued. Willard tried to keep abreast of the opponents views and even attended a meeting of the American Party to "hear Danenhower speak."

Social activities soon were partly given over to politics. Evenings were devoted to reading speeches or political publications. If men and women were present, Fremont songs were sung.

Local speakers, L. S. Rutherford, Mr. Metcalf and Mr. Sloss, were aided by Mr. Leavitt from Kansas, who spoke of deceptions in Kansas. Mr. Leavitt arrived without notice and Willard and Chris Schere rode out to inform neighbors there would be a political gathering at Yorkville school that night.

Their "electioneering" was slowed by apple picking and other farm work, but both Flagg men worked hard for the anti-slavery Republican Party. Thus, the results of the election must have been disappointing.

In Illinois, only the northern counties supported Fremont, and that was essentially an anti-Douglas vote.

Douglas' party won in Illinois, but only because the anti-slavery vote was split. James Buchanan received 105,344 votes for president, Fremont 96,180 and Fillmore 37,451.

Madison County totaled the highest vote in the state for Fillmore—1,658, while Fremont received 1,111 and Buchanan 1,451 here.

The fledgling Republican Party grew, and four years later, Lincoln was elected.

The Quincy American Party gradually faded away.

EOC benefit horse show Sept. 28

Plans for a Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission benefit horse show to be held in Edwardsville Sept. 28 are growing entering the final stage.

Debbie Groeteka is the horse show coordinator. Businesses from all over the county are sponsoring the show's 15 scheduled events.

Trophies have been donated for all events by the House of Trophies in Granite City. Mrs. Shirley Doza of Edwardsville has offered her services as show judge.

"The show is largely the result of the enthusiastic cooperation and assistance of the Madison County Trailblazers Saddle Club," Miss Groeteka says.

The show will begin at 1 p.m. at the Charles Meister Stables on Liberty Street, Edwardsville. There will be $5 entry fee for the show participants, for entry in any, or all events.

There will be a fifty-cent admission charge at the gate.

Proceeds will be turned over to the Madison County EOC outreach staff to purchase shoes and underclothing for needy school children in the county.

BELLEVILLE — Sparked by two Robbie Mann goals, the Granite City South soccer Warriors exploded in the second half here last night and drubbed Belleville West 6-0 in a non-conference game.

South had to overcome a lethargic performance in the first half and a bumpy, grassless in parts, field to raise its record to 5-1. But according to Warriors coach Gene Baker, his team's shaky start in the game was because of the field conditions. "The field was horrible," he said. "It was bumpy and that effects the passing."

South scored its first goal in the first period on a goal that, while not the prettiest ever scored, still counted. Scott Greathouse scored off an assist from teammate Tim Dix out of a scramble in front of the West goal at the 10:11 mark of the first period.

But even though South had clear domination of the game, the score stayed the same until the third quarter. That's when Mann took charge.

Mann scored his two goals within a three minute period. The first was unassisted and the second came off an assist from David Paz. "Robbie is starting to play like we thought he could," said Baker of the senior transfer from Collinsville.

On Mann's second goal, the West goalie appeared to have made the save on the ball coming out of a clump of legs in front of him. But he lost his grip and it slipped past him into the net.

By that time, any thoughts of upset West might have had were long gone. The outcome was decided. The question was by how much.

Then South started having a little fun. Greg White, a strong defender, not known for his scoring prowess, came within a whisker of getting his name in the scoring column. At the 55:15 mark of the third quarter, he blasted a free kick toward the goal. It banged in off a Belleville defender and White had himself a goal.

But the ball touched South's Eric Waltenberger on its way to the Belleville player and White ended up with an assist.

John Rushing completed the third period scoring with a goal on a shot that seemed to have eyes. Rushing took the shot from about 25 yards out to the left of the goal. It scooted along the grass, through a maze of legs and feet, until it found the far right-hand corner of the net.

"John worked as hard as anyone out there tonight," said Baker. "He tries hard and is coming along."

South final goal of the game came at the 73:01 mark of the fourth quarter when Don Cooke scored off a penalty kick.

The game was the first of two South will have to play without the services of All-American David Fernandez, who was injured in Monday's 2-0 loss at Rosary.

In that game, Fernandez kicked into a blocked ball and received a severe ankle sprain. Initial examinations indicated a possible break. But x-rays showed no fracture. South, while out-shooting the three-time Missouri state champs and having the edge in penalty kicks, couldn't find the back of the net and dropped their first game of the season on the road.

Fernandez, a senior who has been plagued by injuries throughout his prep career, will have to miss Saturday's home game (11:45 a.m.) with Belleville East, but should be back in time for the Warriors' home showdown next Tuesday with Gateway East Conference rival Edwardsville.

"We played very well tonight without David," said Baker. "He's so much a part of our attack that it says a lot for the guys that they could compensate."

Last week, Edwardsville pulled a major upset when it tied the Warriors 2-2 on its tiny field.

South unanimous pick

GRANITE CITY — Four-time defending champion Granite City South is a unanimous choice for the top spot in the first Press-Record poll of area soccer coaches. The Warriors, who won the title last season with a 2-1 victory over New Trier East in Palatine, earned all five first place votes in the poll. South was 4-1 when the poll was taken. Last night, it raised its mark to 5-1 with a 6-0 bombing of Belleville West on the road (see related story).

Coming in second was Collinsville with 44 points. The Kahoks received four second place votes and one third.

Next in line is Granite City fourth, North is also 5-1 on the season, its only loss being 2-0 at home last week to South.

Alton comes in third with 36 points. The Redbirds already have losses to South (7-1) and Collinsville (2-1).

The fifth place team in this week's poll is the one that has given South its only tie of the season and has handed North one of its two ties. Edwardsville. The pesky Tigers received only 30 points, even though they are still unbeaten with a 5-0 record. The Tigers stopped Cahokia 1-0 in double overtime Tuesday to keep their state clean. The win over the Comanches was Edwardsville's first-ever in Gateway East Conference play.

This season, the Press-Record's soccer poll will list only the top five teams. Any other teams receiving votes will be listed as Honorable Mention in the order of points they received. Points are awarded on a descending basis. Ten points for each first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc.

"It's hard to find ten real good teams in the area," said one of the coaches on the board. "Really this year, it's South and the other nine."

Other teams receiving votes in this week's poll were Quincy Senior High, Belleville West, Belleville Althoff, Cahokia, Quincy Notre Dame and Belleville East.

Steelers go for third win; South hosts fired-up Cahokia

GRANITE CITY — While Granite City North's football Steelers and Madison's Trojans go looking to add to their victories Friday night, Granite City South's Warriors will try for their first of the season Saturday night as the third weekend of the prep football season gets underway. North will host Wood River's Oilers Friday in Memorial Stadium at 7:30 p.m., while Madison will play a rare Friday night game at home against Perryville. St. Vincent's also at 7:30. South will host Gateway East Conference foe Cahokia Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

North is coming off an impressive home victory last week against Collinsville. Trailing 9-7 at halftime, the Steelers put on a clinic for the Kahoks in the second half and came away with a 28-9 win.

Wood River will be coming off a 17-6 Mississippi Valley Conference loss to Civic Memorial of Bethalto last Friday. It was a dismal showing indeed for the Oilers. They made only five first downs, while giving up 10 to Bethalto. The real story, however, could be the Wood River defense. It gave up 200 yards rushing to the Eagles, who found the running game so easy, they didn't even attempt a single pass. Steeler running back Kevin Buchanan could have a field day.

Wood River also gave the ball over the Bethalto once on a fumble and was whistled for 11 penalties, going for 110 negative yards.

Madison, meanwhile, is coming off its first win in nearly two seasons and its first-ever Quad County Conference win. Last Saturday at home, the Trojans scored a pair of two-point conversions and downed Breese Central 16-12. One of the

Barrington scores twice

ST. LOUIS — Slowly but surely, the Granite City North soccer team is molding itself into a unit.

The North Steelers, in the throngs of a "rebuilding season," ran their record to 3-1-2 here Monday night with a 3-0 victory over Missouri-based Parkway North High.

Things won't get any easier for the Steelers. In fact, they'll get tougher. Two games with better Missouri teams follow. Friday, they travel to McClellan North and Saturday visit Hazelwood Central. "I guess we take them in bunches," said North coach Bob Kehoe. "But if we're going to become a good team, we've got to play against good teams."

One of the newer of the four Parkway schools, North High is nonetheless in the process of building a strong soccer program. And its home field doesn't hurt the process.

"Their field reminds me of Collinsville's," said Kehoe. "It's a football field and is narrow. Smaller fields give teams trouble."

"Ten yards on the side of a field can make a lot of difference," he said. "A small field like that can help a team's defense. They can bunch up the middle against you."

That's what Parkway did. But it still wasn't enough to slow down the Steelers once they got into gear. After 13 minutes of pushing and shoving in the middle of the field, Granite North broke through on the first of two goals by Paul Barrington. He received an assist from teammate Jeff Puryear.

After the goal, the flow of the game loosened up. Even though Granite North dominated the scoring statistics, the other numbers indicate a closer game. The Steelers outshot Parkway 18-12 and had the edge in corner kicks 5-3.

North's second goal was a solo effort. Even though Robert Szales earned an assist on the play, it was Mark McWhorter's second effort that made it 2-0. After a pass through the backfield by Szales, McWhorter shot the ball toward the goal. The goaltender came out and made the save, but the ball bounced up behind him. McWhorter moved around and shot it into the net. It came 12 minutes into the second half.

The Steelers' third goal came on a well-executed play. Eric Maass and the other top 20 teams are: Philadelphia Textile, 7; Columbia, 8; the Mustangs of Southern Methodist, 9; and American University, 10. Columbia was a semi-finalist at Tampa along with SIUE, Clemson and Penn. State.

The other top 20 teams are: University of Wisconsin, 11; UCLA, 12; U. of Rhode Island, 13; Navy, 14; St. Louis, 15; Duke, 16; Cleveland State, 17; Adelphi, 18; North Texas State, 19; and Princeton, 20.

The South Carolina Gamecocks, in jumping off to a 3-0 record, have displayed an awesome offense: they walloped Western Carolina, 11-0;

"Even though he just gets an assist, it couldn't have happened without him."

North got outstanding goaltending from starter Rob Chapman. "The more I see of him in goal, the better I like him," said Kehoe. "He played a good game. An intelligent one."

Parkway North dropped to 2-3 on the season. "They're not a bad team," said Kehoe. "They're not one of the St. Louis powers, but they've got some fine players there."

HEADLINES — The North junior varsity team also notched a victory Monday. The junior Steelers won 2-0. North has a 2-1-1 record in the Gateway East Conference. Granite South is 1-0-1, a half-game behind the Steelers. Surprising Edwardsville is the team that handed each GC school its conference tie.

Cougars are fifth in poll; Indiana, Goldschmidt here

EDWARDSVILLE — Two of the four teams which will battle it out in the second annual Cougar Soccer Classic Tournament this weekend (Friday and Saturday) in Indiana are the University and the host, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, are in the top ten American College soccer teams in the poll just released by the nation's collegiate coaches.

Indiana, ranked fifth last week in the initial rankings, took over the fourth slot, while Coach Bob Guelker's SIUE Cougars, now, 3-1-1, moved from the sixth position to number five this week.

The two other schools entered in the Cougar Classic, the University of Portland Pilots and the U. of South Carolina Gamecocks, aren't ranked currently, but on the basis of their record and last year, could push themselves into the top 20.

Still holding down the number one berth in the rankings were the Clemson Tigers, the team which lost to SIUE 2-2 in the finals of the NCAA Division I championship tournament in Tampa last December.

Runner-up to Clemson is the University of San Francisco, which lost to SIUE in the NCAA quarterfinals in 79. Alabama A & M, ranked number one for most of last year and now competing in Division I of the NCAA, still held firm in the number three slot.

Newcomer to the top 20 are the number six slot behind SIUE are the Huskies of the University of Connecticut. UConn, already owns victories this season over the Cougars (1-0) and the Bills (2-0) of St. Louis University. However, two days after beating the Bills, the Huskies lost to Indiana, 1-0, on the Hoosiers' field.

Completing the top ten are: Philadelphia Textile, 7; Columbia, 8; the Mustangs of Southern Methodist, 9; and American University, 10. Columbia was a semi-finalist at Tampa along with SIUE, Clemson and Penn. State.

The other top 20 teams are: University of Wisconsin, 11; UCLA, 12; U. of Rhode Island, 13; Navy, 14; St. Louis, 15; Duke, 16; Cleveland State, 17; Adelphi, 18; North Texas State, 19; and Princeton, 20.

The South Carolina Gamecocks, in jumping off to a 3-0 record, have displayed an awesome offense: they walloped Western Carolina, 11-0; devasted Francis Marion College, 8-0, and breezed to a 2-1 victory over their sister school, the University of South Carolina at Spartanburg.

Indiana is now 2-1-1 following its 2-0 victory Monday over Penn State's Nittany Lions, whom the Cougars barely edged out at Tampa, 2-1. Coach Jerry Veagley's Hoosiers were tied 1-1 by Southern Methodist and then, the following night, lost 1-0 to the Mean Green of North Texas State at Denton.

Their victory over the Huskies at the University of Connecticut, 1-0, last week was a big one.

The University of Portland also considered the "dark horse" of the Cougar Classic, although the Pilots have most of their players who compiled a 13-8-3 record

Largest cycle jumper to be at Tri-City

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — When people call Ed Beckley "Big Ed," they aren't just kidding.

"Big Ed" Beckley is six-foot-two and weighs in at about 325 pounds. And he's a motorcycle jumper.

The "World's Largest Motorcycle Jumper," he's billed as. He and his wife Linda will appear Saturday night at Tri-City Speedway to perform at the intermission of the "World of Outlaws" program.

What's amazing about Beckley's act is that BESIDES being so large, he also jumps sometimes with his wife riding the cycle passenger-style.

Surprisingly, his size and her added weight (126 pounds) seem to make for a smoother jump, although Beckley said the key to a good landing is setting a speed and holding it steady. Otherwise, he might land off center.

Beckley will most likely jump eight or nine cars solo Saturday night and then four or five with his wife riding. They take pride in being the only jumping-couple in the world.

If Beckley's story sounds familiar, it should. Last spring, he and Linda were featured on NBC's "Real People" program. He has earned notoriety recently with his plans to jump from one tower of the World Trade Center in New York to the other. "I hope they won't let him do it," said wife Linda. "Because I know if they let him, he'll try it."

Beckley began his motorcycle jumping career some seven years ago after seeing Evel Knievel at the Kansas State Fair in Hutchinson. Bragging he could do the same thing, he accepted a dare to jump. After nearly two years of studying techniques, he began jumping professionally in 1973.

Both Ed and Linda were born and reared in tiny Scott City, Kan. "It's just about four miles west of nowhere," she laughed. It was there they became high school sweethearts. Linda said she had never seen a motorcycle until she met Ed. He's been riding one since he was four years old.

After he began his career as a jumper, Ed set several world records, pooh-poohed Evel Knievel's accomplishments, and on one occasion jumped his bike over 15 compact cars.

But in 1974, his career, and nearly his life, came to an abrupt halt. While attempting a jump in Odessa, Texas, he came up short and crashed UNDER his landing ramp. The impact of his body bent a two-inch steel pipe. His knee ripped a three-inch piece of plywood. His leg was cut to the bone from knee to ankle.

"Ed had to spend six months in the back and four years away from jumping," said Linda.

Upon his return to the jumping scene, Beckley, who had always been a large man, was even bigger. "All that time he was recovering, he just kept on eating," Linda said. "He got bigger."

Has he lost any of that weight since his return to action? Linda grinned. "No," she said.

The couple's first double-jump came about in an odd way. "Ed was talking with his promoter about making the show an hour long," said Linda. "He came up with the idea of double-jumping and told the promoter he knew of someone who would do it. He promised them I'd do it before he even talked to me about it."

"He said it'd only be one time and that was all."

Famous last words. Their first double jump was in Dover, Ohio. "The first time we did it was at the show," said Linda. "No practice."

ED AND LINDA BECKLEY, see here in a recent jump, will appear Saturday night at Tri-City Speedway. They are billed as the only husband-wife double jumpers in the world. Ed is also the largest, weighing in at around 325 pounds.

"Linda screamed the whole way across," said Ed. "She still jumps with her eyes closed most of the time."

Has the jumping business been profitable? "Let's put it this way," said Linda. "Back home, I was working as a bank teller and Ed was selling motorcycles. This year from our tour, we'll be able to bring home over $75,000. That's after everything else is paid for."

Last year, the couple made over 280 jumps. This year, the number will be even more.

"I had one jump that paid me $100,000," said Ed. "At Appalachian Lake in Morgantown, W. Va., I jumped a lake. It's right at 200 feet across."

After their show Saturday at Tri-City Speedway, the couple will travel to Springfield, Ill. to jump at another World of Outlaws show. And then it's on to hit the road again."

"The first thing we're gonna do is nothing — for about four weeks," laughed Linda. "Then we'll go to some booking meetings and by that time, it'll be time to hit the road again."

NET SCRAMBLE. The front of the Madison net was the scene of a tie-up Tuesday in Bethalto during the Trojans 2-1 overtime victory.

over the C-M Eagles. The win was Madison's first in a 1-2-1 season.

Trojan kickers win first; take overtime thriller 2-1

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press-Record

MADISON — "Giving up" is a term used quietly around Madison High School. Especially when it concerns the Trojan soccer squad.

Some teams might be discouraged by a slow start, but the Madison kickers thrive on doing better the next time. Drawing a tie and a loss in their first two contests of the young season, the Trojans still couldn't find the right combination in their third game.

They dropped a road game to Gibault of Waterloo 4-2 Monday. However they pulled out their first victory, a 2-1 overtime win over Bethalto Tuesday.

"In the first two games, we played extremely well," said Madison head coach Ed Briggs. "We usually dominated the other team, but Gibault had more team play than we did and for the first time we were the ones dominated."

Although outshooting Gibault 13-8, the Trojans couldn't find the net until the third quarter. By that time,

Gibault had already built a comfortable 3-0 margin with a pair of scores in the first half and a quick goal to begin the third quarter. "They had more of the play in the game," said Briggs, "but we got off more shots."

Freshman Mike Young broke the shutout for Madison with a shot in the third. "He's coming on," said Briggs. "For a freshman, he's not bad." Gibault picked up an insurance tally in the final period. Ed Forister finished off the scoring for the Trojans on a penalty kick.

"The guys gave 110 percent all the time," said Briggs. "They keep coming at you and never give up. But I didn't expect Gibault to be so strong. They are pretty tough. They're definitely going to be in the running for the conference Mid-South title."

The following night, Tuesday, the figures were nearly the same, but the results were altered. The Trojans clearly dominated the shot output, shooting off 18 compared to Bethalto's 8.

However, Madison had two shots reach the net.

"We really pushed the ball down at them," said Briggs. "Our trouble is that our previous experience is limited. The last touch in your shots should be to put the ball in the goal. We just weren't able to put the finishing touches on the play."

Madison played it smart against Bethalto and jumped out to a lead. Not as early as they might have wanted, but it was a lead. Corey Silas put an end to the suspense of who was going to score the first goal.

The senior drilled a shot early in the third quarter for a 1-0 Madison advantage. Later in the period the Eagles made a game of it on a questionable call. Trojan goalie Avery Crawford had apparently snagged a Bethalto shot on the goal line. In some hesitation the referee scored it a goal, much to Crawford and Briggs surprise.

"The ball was kicked high about 50 yards away," said Briggs. "And Avery didn't let the ball go over the line, but his feet did. So the referee called it a goal. I thought it was kind of a cheap call myself."

Again the contest was a stalemate until the overtime period. In just the second minute of the extra quarter, Senior Robert Tarasovich connected with the game winner. "It was kind of a downer when Bethalto scored," said Briggs, "but they didn't give up. They were extremely hyped and wanted this game bad. They didn't want to come out on the short end again."

This initial victory gives the Trojans a 1-2-1 mark, but if you look at their shot total, they could easily be 4-0. Through four games, Madison has rifled 69 shots at the opposition compared to just 34 for the opponents. "If you want to score a goal," said Briggs, "you have to take at least 10 attempts. We have scored five goals which is a little under the ratio. We even hit the cross-bar twice against Bethalto. One of these games we'll explode and the other team is not going to believe it."

Madison volleyball gets started tonight against Alton

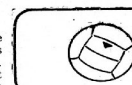

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press-Record

MADISON — Getting to the top of the success ladder is not always smooth sailing. The road may be rocky. But once you have made the climb, stepping down a couple of steps can be hard.

When Carol Stearns came on the volleyball scene at Madison four years ago, the Lady Trojans could only chalk up a lone victory in her season debut. But her experience and coaching talent along with some time and Madison built its win column up to 16 against 9 defeats in 1979.

Following the run, a Mental Health Awareness Family Fun Community Picnic will begin at the Public Square featuring games, rides, crafts, bands and guest celebrities Fred Bird, Stanley Steamer, Miss Greater Southwestern Illinois, the St. Louis Steamers Soccer players, and many others to be announced.

The run and picnic will kick off Mental Health Awareness Week and the Mental Health Institute, Oct. 11-17.

Prep Volleyball

Madison's year of success might only be short lived, though. "We lost three starters from last year's squad," said Stearns. "I thought the bubble was going to burst, but it's looking like everything is falling together. We are going to look decent. I think this is a year of maturity for us."

The continued good fortune for the Trojans will be greatly helped by three returning junior starters. They have been starting on the volleyball team since their freshman year," said Stearns. "They are really outstanding compared to the other kids."

Duplicating last year's output could pose to be a problem for Stearns, however finding the right personnel for the task might not be as hard. "We have a bunch of sophomores out," said Stearns. "Some that haven't been out before. In fact, we have so many new ones out, that I really have no idea what kind of talent I have. So, I'm hoping under my belt first. They may surprise me and I hope they do."

An unexpected gift usually turns out to be the best gift of all. The Lady Trojans will have to come up with that type of present for Stearns as they take on the Alton Redbirds in their home opener today. "We beat them last year," said Stearns, "but I don't know who they have lost. They might have had a slow start due to their school opening later. It should be pretty evenly matched, though."

Alton's slow start could be neutralized as Madison has also had its difficulties in conducting proper practice sessions. "We've just had new standards installed," said Stearns. "The ones that bolt into the floor. But we haven't been able to practice on it. So, we have had to set up a rope at net height. The girls haven't even had time on an actual net yet. It's going to be pretty interesting to see how they perform."

Hunting, Fishing Day proclaimed

SPRINGFIELD — Governor James R. Thompson has proclaimed Saturday, Sept. 27 as Hunting and Fishing Day in Illinois.

Hunters and anglers contribute greatly to the conservation of our land. Through careful adherence to the hunting and fishing laws of Illinois, they can enjoy their sport while ensuring the preservation of our wildlife and the beauty of our land.

"Each year the hunters and anglers of Illinois join millions throughout the nation in celebrating Hunting and Fishing Day on the fourth Saturday in September," said Governor Thompson.

Through their purchase of hunting and fishing licenses, sportsmen provided the state's fish and game department with over $6 million for conservation last year. And the 1,177,687 licensed fishermen and hunters in Illinois entitled the state to more than $4 million in federal funds for fish and wildlife restoration and hunter safety training programs.

Lessons from folk medicine

Today's doctors aren't likely to prescribe a mouthful of fungus to stop painful migraine headaches. They don't have to — the pharmaceutical industry has known of this remedy for years.

How about a twist of licorice to speed the healing of stomach ulcers, or a garlic clove to cure skin problems?

It may sound unlikely, but modern medicine often has much in common with traditional folk remedies, according to Dr. Iclai Hartman of Simmons College in Boston. She reported on the biochemical basis of folk medicine at the Second Chemical Congress of the North American Continent.

Americans who use a common drug to control high blood pressure, Raudoxin, manufactured by the Squibb Co., might be surprised to learn that the drug's active ingredient traces its roots to a plant growing in India. The plant, rauwolfia serpentina, has been used for generations by Indians to attain dream or trance states.

When the U.S. drug industry began searching for blood pressure medication in the early 1950s, someone suggested this Indian trance plant, Dr. Hartman said.

"The plant's active ingredient, reserpine, was isolated and purified and is now manufactured for the drug Raudoxin. We don't use the plant as a source of reserpine now, but it did give us the model used in manufacturing the drug."

Folk medicine and natural products have been major contributors to drug development. A recent study concludes that 47 percent of drugs prescribed by U.S. doctors come from natural sources.

Garlic is just a common recipe ingredient in this country, said Dr. Hartman. But in China and India it takes on the more serious tasks of healing eczema and ear drum perforations and treating coronary artery disease.

It also has been claimed to be of some value in healing skin ailment, respiratory disorders, hysteria, tuberculosis and mild forms of cancer.

Even nature's poisons have contributed to human health when taken in proper amount. Once one of the most dreaded plants, the fungus ergot has provided the "only thing that cures a full-blown migraine," she continued.

Many active substances known as alkaloids have been isolated from ergot, commonly found growing on rye.

For example, ergotamine is widely prescribed in this country for curing migraines.

Headache discomfort is the result of dilated, or expanded, blood vessels. Ergot is a successful migraine remedy because it causes the vessels to constrict, she explained.

But too much of a good thing, even fungus, can be harmful. Long-term use of ergot may cause severe constriction of blood vessels, leading to gangrene.

Licorice is another folk medicine which may have scientific validity. It is used a little more than a candy flavoring in this country, but experiments indicate that it can regulate the debilitating ailment, Addison's disease, and accelerate the healing of gastric and intestinal ulcers.

Marked by extreme weakness, nervousness and twitching, Addison's disease involves an imbalance of potassium levels in the body. Licorice can regulate this condition, she said, but also can be dangerous at high concentrations.

"The body's hormone levels will be affected and edema, or swelling, can result. With a subsequent rise in blood pressure, the patient becomes lethargic and will experience a gain in body weight."

Like garlic, licorice is used medicinally in India and China but not the U.S. Licorice lovers in this country should note, however, that two to four daily twists of their favorite candy could be too much. Dr. Hartman said that 200 milligrams per day of pure licorice can cause serious effects.

She now plans to investigate marijuana, hallucinogenic drugs and South African herbal medicines, which she considers the largest untapped source of "folk medicine."

Annual meeting of scholarship group

The annual meeting of the Granite City Scholarship Foundation council will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the principal's office of Granite City High School South.

John 13:35 ... "By this shall all men know you are my disciples, that you have love one for another."

Love is the way any Christian can be identified in any Church. In any religious organization, love is the garment all Christians must wear.

Love supersedes benevolence, education, works, all things. In this respect all believers have equality. Without education, without mercy, without love, without an 'even' break, we all begin with the same measure of God's love. And we love because He first loved us.

If you are seeking God, and praise God many times today, then you must know what to look for. It is love.

Before you choose the building of worship, the traditions, the doctrines, fun programs to capture and hold youth, it will be wisdom to look for the same thing God is looking for. Love.

May your search be well rewarded.
Today.

O'Neal opens GOP headquarters here

LT. Governor Dave O'Neal, GOP candidate for U.S. Senate from this district, was in Granite City today to open the Republican headquarters in the 1980 block of Edison Avenue during ceremonies at 11:30 a.m. and for a luncheon at Alexander's Restaurant at noon.

O'Neal was scheduled to address the student body at Lewis & Clark Community College at 3:30 p.m. today, then to attend a reception at the Alton Ramada Inn at 5 p.m., followed by a speech at the Alton Homecoming at 7 p.m., before leaving Madison County.

Funfest to honor county officials

An "old fashioned funfest" honoring three Madison County officials is scheduled from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday at the Edwardsville Knights of Columbus Hall on Marine Road (Route 143), Edwardsville.

The honorees are County Clerk Evelyn M. Bowles, County Treasurer Michael S. "Mike" Henkhaus and Sheriff Emil J. Toffant.

Entertainment, games, beer and food will be featured at the funfest. State and county candidates are expected to attend. Donations of $10 per person are requested and tickets may be obtained by calling 876-0719 on 9/16/80.

Sponsoring the afternoon event is the Committee For Re-Election of Bowles, Henkhaus and Toffant.

Disturbance at Kirkpatrick

Paul W. Solomon, 4905 Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged with disorderly conduct and a 16-year-old boy was charged with criminal damage to property following a disturbance early this week in Kirkpatrick Homes in which a part of a bed frame was thrown through a window in a kitchen door at Solomon's apartment.

It was alleged that Solomon was yelling loudly and cursing the juvenile and then displayed a knife before going inside. The juvenile then allegedly threw the piece of frame through the window in the door. Police arrived and arrested both of them.

COPPER WIRE STOLEN

Copper wire weighing 300 pounds and valued at $150 was stolen by a thief who climbed a fence at Illinois Power Co. property at 22nd and Adams streets. It was discovered Monday. The wiring was in several coils.

HELPING IS FUN, or so the expression on Candy Striper Gay Wright's face indicates as she accepts a certificate from Sister Mary George at St. Elizabeth Medical Center's annual Candy Strippers' Awards Banquet. Gay also is a 1980

United Way Junior Volunteer of the Year. Nearly 100 Candy Strippers and guests attended the awards luncheon honoring the SEMC junior volunteers.

SEMC honors Candy Strippers

Nearly 100 Candy Strippers and their guests attended the luncheon banquet, which honored the young women and girls for their hours of volunteer service.

Sister Mary Louise delivered the invocation and Sister Mary George presided over the awards ceremony, assisted by Steve Hunter, administrative assistant to Sister Mary Thomas, SEMC president.

Special awards and certificates were presented to the graduating Candy Strippers by Mrs. Helen Bergfield, SEMC Auxiliary president.

The graduates honored, include: Rita Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker, 1,100 hours of volunteer service; Linda Hylla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hylla, 1,000 hours; Caren Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Berry, 200 hours.

Gift enables Shelter Care Home residents to take trip

A gift of $850 from the Madison County Bar Association to the activity program of the Madison County Shelter Care Home will enable about 35 to 40 of the home's residents to take a day's outing to Grant's Farm next week.

Donald Metzger, president of the county Bar, plans to present to see the group off at 10 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 23, as they board a bus for the day's activity. The donation will pay for the bus, for lunch for those taking the trip, and for other expenses incurred.

Pat Schumacher, activity director for the Shelter Care Home, said, "We are most grateful for this gift. It will enable us to spend more time with our residents in activities, rather than devoting the time to fund-raising for our program."

AARP opens fall season
Granite City Area Chapter 1340 of the American Association of Retired Persons held their first fall meeting last week at the Granite City Township Hall. The meeting was opened by President Helen Bergfield who led the recitation of the Lord's Prayer and pledge of allegiance.

Announcement was made of the serious accident which hospitalized the accompanying of the Rhythm Band, Thelma Shannon and resulted in the death of her mother. Minutes of previous meeting given by Karmyn Edmonds, who also read several thank you notes from members. Clara Schilling reported on the treasurer's statement.

Clyde Myers and Ruby Corbit held the registration of members and guests, and reported that there were 10 members and 12 guests attending.

Marge Hall noted the fall social meeting held at the home of Charles and Doris Young, Mary Wilson, Ann Dombek, Robert and Doris Pea, John and Blanche Malusky.

Verne Walter spoke of the new pamphlets to be distributed giving the many benefits of AARP.

Georgia Butler read a list of cards sent to members in the hospitals and memorials sent. Mrs. Boyd who read a letter from the personnel of Hospice for the entertainment of the Rhythm Band. The band is to play at Belleville on Saturday, she added.

Delores Klesh introduced the Checkerboard Squares and Mr. Boyd who entertained. Then the Illinois state hog calling champion of 1980, Frank Greenwald, gave his competition at the State Fair and gave his story and then his famous call. Mr. Greenwald is a Granite City Postman — not a farmer, it was noted.

Ralph Housman, director of the Social Services of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, told of their work in the social service of the hospital. Their work takes many different turns depending on the needs of the patient, particularly about the patient to be discharged. This also includes the Mobile Medical, which was of great interest to the AARP members.

Prizes were given to Marie Stank, Evelyn Leis, Helen Pregel, Jo Graklanoff, Mary Nemeth, Hazel Staggs, Irene Kadnee, Vernice Walter, Ann Sporic, Bess Walter, Vic Scrivner, John Selver, Evelyn Davis, Mary Wilson, Irene Hendricks and William Hobson. Doughnuts and coffee were served by the refreshment committee.

A board meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 24 at 9 a.m. at the Township Hall and the next regular meeting will be Wednesday, Oct. 8, 7 p.m. at the Township Hall.

$10,000 reward on damaged earth moving equipment
Calhoun County Contracting Corp. reports sabotage of earth-moving equipment on the night of Sept. 4 on U.S. Route 40 at Illinois Route 4, the firm's St. Jacob project. A sugary liquid substance was discovered in the fuel lines and oil pans of 12 pieces of equipment having a value of over $650,000.

The Madison County sheriff's department and Illinois state police have been called into the investigation. Damage to equipment and the repair costs are estimated to be in excess of $70,000.

A reward of up to $10,000 is offered by the Southern Illinois Builders Association and the Calhoun Corp. for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible. All applications for the reward will be kept confidential.
